WORLD ARMS LIMITATION IS GIVEN BOOSTMOLOTOV ACCEPTS
U. S. PROPOSAL IN
U. N. ASSEMBLY

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—V. M. Molotov, Soviet Russian foreign minister, cleared the way today for a major advance toward world arms limitation by an unequivocal declaration that inspection and control machinery regulating arms restrictions must be free of the big power veto.

Molotov, in an obviously conciliatory statement to the United Nations political committee, also accepted the United States proposal on arms limitation as a basis for discussion at this assembly session.

The committee, which had been hoping for just such a statement as Molotov made, quickly agreed unanimously on a 20-nation subcommittee to whip into shape an acceptable resolution for action by the assembly.

Act Without Veto
The Soviet Union did not surrender the veto power in the security council. It still guards that right jealously against all attempts at this assembly session to modify the veto power in that council.

But Russia did make it clear—in answer to repeated proddings last week from Great Britain, Canada and other delegations—that the organizations to be set up within the framework of the security council for the inspection and control of arms limitations would be autonomous and would be clothed with full authority.

This means that inspectors and control officials could act without veto, and presumably would be free to go anywhere in the world on their mission. But these organizations would report to the security council.

The veto power still would rest there but, as Canada's foreign minister, L. S. St. Laurent pointed out, then use of the veto by any power or the refusal of any nation to permit inspection would be tantamount to an open declaration of war against the rest of the world.

Court Rules Birth
Of Baby Violates
Apartment Lease

Cleveland, Dec. 4 (AP)—A far-reaching Ohio supreme court decision, holding that the birth of a son 16 months ago to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Court violated their apartment lease, will be appealed to the U. S. supreme court, Atty. Morris Morganstern said tonight.

Mrs. Court was tearful as she learned of the state court's 4 to 3 ruling which upheld the right of a landlord to restrict occupancy of his property to adults, and reversed a Cuyahoga county appellate court decision.

"I don't know what we are going to do—move out into the street, I suppose," Mrs. Court said. "This ruling was not only important to us but to all other parents who have children and who are at the mercy of landlords."

The rental company contended it rented the apartment to Court, a wounded World War II veteran, and his wife Feb. 19, 1945, on a month-to-month basis with occupancy confined exclusively to adults. The baby was born six months after they moved in.

Unions In Oakland
Agree To Arbitrate,
End General StrikePEACE IN INDIA
NO NEARER YET

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP)—Officials of striking AFL unions agreed tonight to call off the general strike in Oakland and return to work immediately if the Retail Merchants Association would limit discussions, in the unionization dispute which precipitated the strike, to the two stores—Kahns and Hastings—originally involved.

Full details of the agreement were not immediately available.

James F. Galliano, attorney for the Retail Merchants Association, said the strikers would stand pat on their demand that wage negotiations be limited to Kahns' department store and Hastings' clothing store.

The employers earlier said they would negotiate with the union on all stores in the retail merchants' group when the union showed it represented a majority of the association's employees.

The proposal to arbitrate the issues of the strike was reached in a four-hour meeting between labor representatives, representatives of the city of Oakland, and Federal Conciliator V. Wayne Kensation.

The proposal will be submitted to the merchant's association immediately for consideration.

Galliano said that if the proposal were accepted the general strike would be called off.

The compromise was recommended by City Manager John F. Hassler.

Galliano said the announcement by Dave Beck, international vice-president of the AFL Teamsters Union in Seattle, ordering the Oakland teamsters back to work tomorrow morning did not influence the union decision.

Meanwhile, the CIO County Labor Council scheduled a meeting for tomorrow night, and threatened to cut off electricity, gas, water and telephone service to 1,000,000 residents of Oakland and East Bay cities in support of the AFL unionists.

Beck in Seattle called upon teamsters to return to work in the morning regardless of the outcome of the peace negotiations, provided employers made "no overt act."

"The general strike is the first move in a revolution, certainly an industrial revolution, and it is certain that if it is not sanely and sensibly handled could lead to the overthrow of government," Beck said.

More Schools Close
Municipal agencies are being set up to accept certifications of low coal supplies by domestic consumers, Leonard said.

The program also calls for coal bin inspection and issuance of a certificate to be presented to any coal dealer who has supplies on hand.

At least 17 Michigan schools have been closed and approximately 9,000 students sent home, a survey showed. In addition, 45 other schools, with more than 20,000 pupils, faced shutdowns within a week.

Three Catholic schools and a Lutheran parochial school in Saginaw sent trucks to the nearby Swan Creek Mining Co. and brought back enough coal for another week of school for approximately 2,000 pupils. The mine, a co-operative employing about 100 non-union miners, has produced 100 tons of coal daily during the national soft-coal dispute.

The eight Highland Park schools, scheduled for imminent closing, were relieved with the

MICHIGAN MAY HAVE MILLION
WORKERS IDLEEMBARGO ON FRIDAY
WILL BE BLOW TO INDUSTRY

(By The Associated Press)
An estimated 1,000,000 Michigan workers faced eventual unemployment, revival of state war-time coal distribution regulations was announced, and more schools closed as the coal crisis tightened its grip on Michigan today (Wed.).

Impending shut-downs or curtailments announced by most automobile companies would affect most of the 327,175 persons estimated by the United States employment service to work in auto and parts plants in the Detroit area alone. Industry sources have estimated 500,000 auto workers throughout the nation will be laid off.

Shutdowns Imminent
The Detroit Office of USES declared 1,027,300 men and women are employed in the state's manufacturing plants, and industry sources said the majority of them would be laid off if the freight embargo is continued long enough.

The embargo, announced in Washington as a coal-saving measure, takes effect at 12:01 a. m. Friday.

Joining the automotive "big three"—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler—Packard Motor Co., Hudson Motor Car Co. and Nash-Kelvinator announced that outright shutdowns or curtailments are a week or ten days away.

In Lansing, Capt. Donald S. Leonard, state fuel administrator, announced that the war-time "certificate of necessity" coal distribution program will take effect in Detroit and some other communities within a few days.

The other coal-short cities ordered under the program are Midland, Owosso, Lansing, Sturgis, Pontiac, Muskegon, and Saginaw. Others will be added "as the need arises," Leonard said.

Film Actress' Husband
Says Dodger Manager Wrecked Marriage

Los Angeles, Dec. 4 (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team, was charged today with having wrecked the marriage of James Ray Hendricks, airport executive, and Lorraine Day, attractive film actress.

The allegations were contained in an answer filed by Hendricks to Miss Day's suit for divorce.

A series of meetings between the baseball pilot and actress was climaxed, the document alleged, when Durocher came to Hendricks last Nov. 11, announced he was in love with Miss Day and wished to marry her. Hendricks claimed the shock left him "completely humiliated and overwhelmed beyond the description of words."

Durocher, while posing a family friend, "clandestinely pursued" Miss Day's affections. He said the alleged romance started last Nov. 6 when Durocher was on the plane in which Miss Day was flying to Minneapolis for a film premiere.

Hendricks, who said in his petition that Miss Day "is the only woman he ever has loved or ever will love," does not ask a divorce, but merely seeks to prevent her from obtaining one. He also asks distribution of community property which he estimates at $100,000.

Miss Day began the contested action by suing Hendricks on grounds of cruelty. They were married May 16, 1942, and have three adopted children, girls of five and three, and a boy, 12 months.

Durocher was divorced in October, 1943, by Grace L. Durocher, St. Louis dress designer.

American Forces

Cleanup In Morals

Berlin, Dec. 4 (AP)—An army-sponsored cleanup of misconduct and immorality among occupation troops in Germany, along the lines of charges made in a report to the U. S. senate war investigation committee, has resulted in a series of court martials which have been underway for some weeks.

Two lieutenant colonels, one in Berlin and one in Bremen, were arrested, as well as several minor officers. Some have been sentenced to prison terms.

A special judge advocate court now is investigating hundreds of other charges ranging from large scale black marketing to conduct unbecoming an officer.

A CID report finished about three months ago listed hundreds of cases of black market dealings and of American officers and men consorting with German girls in billets and elsewhere.

REPUBLICANS ANTICIPATE
1948 VICTORY; MONOPOLY

MAPPED IN U. S.

BY HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Predictions that the Republicans will win the presidency in 1948 after a "wide open" nomination battle marked lobby talk today among G. O. P. members arriving for a national committee meeting tomorrow.

There also were demands for labor legislation that would destroy what one committeeman called the "monopoly feature" of unions.

The one-day meeting is expected to be more or less routine, with an expense budget for 1947 the prime subject of debate. It will end with a "victory dinner" celebrating the recent comeback at the polls. Rep. Martin of Mass., slated for the House speakership, will address the dinner.

Werner W. Schroeder, of Illinois, who nearly won the committee chairmanship in a 1942 contest at St. Louis, told reporters the GOP should win the White House two years hence.

He said Illinois will go Republican and "it is highly probable" the GOP will elect a mayor of Chicago on April 1, 1947, in view of the "beating" administered to the Cook county Democratic organization of Mayor Edward J. Kelly in the Nov. 5 elections.

Schroeder said the Republicans have already picked their majority candidate. He is Russell Root, attorney and party chairman of Cook county. The slogan is "Root for Chicago."

Clarence Budington Kelland, Arizona committeeman, said in another interview that the "presidential race is wide open." He added there will be a strong demand for a mid-westerner for the presidential nomination.

Other members believed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York would be a strong contender, as well as Senator-elect John W. Bricker and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Although the committee will leave to the new Republican majorities in Congress the task of formulating party policy, individual members had their own views on the coal strike and labor legislation.

Kelland said the first effort should be directed at destroying what he termed the "monopoly feature" of unions.

"What makes the coal strike dangerous," he asserted, "is that it monopolized labor in an entire industry. In the old days there would be a strike against a particular company. Today it is against a whole industry."

Experts Plan Protection
For Cities In Future
Atom Bomb Age

BY ELTON C. FAY
Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—The armed forces, alarmed at the frightful lessons learned in the atom shattered cities of Japan and in the Bikini tests, have set experts to work on defense plans for American cities and fighting men.

The army disclosed in a cryptic announcement today "creation of a board of five generals, with an advisory group of other officers, to study the question of civil defense for the United States insofar as it pertains to war department participation in this essential part of national defense planning."

The board will work with outstanding civilian authorities.

The board's president is Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, chief of operations for General Dwight D. Eisenhower when he commanded the European theater.

The Navy meanwhile has appointed a "director of atomic defense," Rear Admiral William S. Parsons, physicist and technical chief for the joint Army-Navy task force at the Bikini atomic bomb experiments.

The studies of the Army board, it is understood, are directed not only at anti-atom bomb measures but any other methods of modern mass destruction including bacteriological warfare.

Penalties Against UMW Could Go As High As 14 Million

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—The aggregate of the fines assessed against John L. Lewis' coal miners and their union for the two weeks of their walkout could go as high as $9,000,000 to $14,000,000.

And for every day the strike continues an additional fine of $650,000 to $1,050,000 could be chalked up against the miners and their union.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough levied a fine of $10,000 against Lewis personally and $3,500,000 against the union for the duration of the strike so far. The court left the way open to collect additional penalties as long as the strike may continue—possibly at the $250,000-per-day rate imposed today.

Then, the coal mines administration has granted "numerous" applications of mine owners to assess fines ranging from $1 to $2 a day against the strikers. The agency has declined to say how many such applications have been granted, or the number of miners thus fined.

But if operators levied daily fines against all the 400,000 striking miners the cost of these fines to date would amount to between $5,600,000 and $11,200,000—totals separate from the court's fines.

Provisions for imposing fines against individual miners are included in the government contract with the union. Fines so collected go to a medical fund administered by the union. The court fines, however, are retained by the government.

ARMY BANISHES
GERMAN-HATING
Occupation Troops Are Ordered To Help
Reich Rebuild

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 4 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney was officially reported today to have scrapped the U. S. Army's "hate the Germans" policy, and to be preparing to ask Washington to revamp its entire orientation of youthful soldiers heading for occupation zones.

An informed army source said the U. S. policy of teaching soldiers to regard the Germans as an innately militaristic people was halted by a directive issued by McNarney's European theater command.

The directive reportedly recalled all army training manuals, books and films in the theater tending to instigate hate, and ordered troops to help the Germans rebuild the economy and political freedom of their war-torn country.

The army source said that "We suddenly woke up to the fact that the policy of teaching GIs to hate the Germans was out of date, inasmuch as we are stimulating the democratic growth of the German government, youth organizations and trade unions."

The army's wartime policy of instructing soldiers in the history of German aggression was intensified last year, after charges that the army was "too soft" and that soldiers were falling for the German line that individual Germans had no war guilt.

ANGERED BOSS OF MINERS TO APPEAL CASENEW INJUNCTION IS ISSUED AGAINST COAL STRIKE

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—John L. Lewis was fined $10,000 and his United Mine Workers $3,500,000 today after a roaring courtroom scene in which Lewis challenged the judge to fine him anything he pleased.

The union will appeal, but meanwhile further contempt-of-court action can be taken in the same court if Lewis doesn't call off the 14-day-old strike in the soft coal mines, now in government possession.

ONLY SMALL CHANGE
Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—That $3,500,000 fine must look mighty big to the United Mine Workers, but it's small compared to a $29,240,000 fine slapped on the Standard Oil Company in 1907.

In the 1907 case, the late Kenesaw M. Landis fined the company $20,000 on each of 1,426 counts in a freight rebate case.

However, Standard Oil never had to pay off. The supreme court reversed Landis.

Court Order Ignored
Goldsborough imposed today's fines for contempt of court because Lewis and the union ignored the judge's order of Nov. 18 to head off the strike.

The judge replaced that order today with a temporary injunction. Thus Lewis is still under orders to end his strike. Continued refusal could bring another contempt charge. Still to be tried is the government's request for a flat judgment that the strike is illegal and must end.

The mild-voiced Goldsborough called that strike "an evil, demonic, monstrous thing." He said it meant "hunger and cold, and unemployment and destitution."

He said it threatened democratic government itself, and "if actions of this kind can be successfully resisted in the government will be overthrown, and the government would be a dictatorship."

He declared that the first act of a dictatorship would be to "destroy the labor unions."

Nation Comes First
He said he himself was a friend of labor, but "if it becomes a question of the destruction of this union, or the preservation of this Republic, the Republic is going to be preserved."

Goldsborough said Lewis really ought to be sent to prison. But the justice department recommended against a prison sentence. Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, questioned by the judge, frankly said it would "make a martyr" out of Lewis. The judge yielded to this view.

Goldsborough also asked Sonnett what he thought of a continuing fine of $250,000 a day, extending into the future. But Sonnett said the government was not yet prepared to ask such a fine.

CO-OP PROGRAM IS EXPLAINED

Official Of Cooperative League Speaks In Escanaba

The coal strike is only an incident in the age-old problem of production and distribution which we eventually must solve if we are to avoid dictatorship in this country, E. R. Bowen, Chicago, acting secretary of The Cooperative League of the U. S. A., said in a lecture at Carpenters hall last evening.

"America has plenty for everybody," Bowen declared. "We have an abundance of natural resources. Automatic machines make it possible to greatly increase our production with fewer hours of work, so there also can be leisure for all. We have an adequate purchasing power to buy back what we produce, but still there are many people who live in poverty."

Mr. Bowen defined the problem as one in which the majority of the people find that their income is insufficient to meet the prices they have to pay for the goods they desire and need. He pointed out that the cooperative movement, in which consumers may organize to buy at lower prices, could alleviate the problem considerably if a large percentage of the population joined it.

With the use of charts, Mr. Bowen traced the economic trends since 1920. His charts showed the peaks of business activity as occurring in 1910, 1920, 1929, 1937 and 1945, with the valleys in 1915, 1921, 1933 and 1938. During the last century, there have been 26 ups and downs in our national economy, he added. The speaker said that changes of political administrations have little effect on the economics of the nation. During the depression, Mr. Bowen pointed out, the voters have "kicked out the ins," and the new administration has stimulated business activity by increasing the public debt. He added that public and private debts have risen from a total of 100 billion in 1916 to more than 400 billion today, a situation which he regarded as foreboding evil in the future.

Mr. Bowen traced the history of the cooperative movement from the Rochdale pioneers in England in 1844. He said that almost half the families in England belong to some kind of cooperative, but that one hears more about the movement in the Scandinavian countries, particularly Sweden, where the Swedish people have been more successful in dramatizing their achievements. He said that Sweden enjoys a standard of living that is among the highest in the world, because there is a more equitable distribution of income, goods and services.

First World Bank President Resigns $30,000-A-Year Job

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Eugene Meyer, first president of the 38-Nation World Bank, resigned today exactly six months after being elected to that office.

The resignation, accepted "with profound regret" by the bank's directors and to be effective Dec. 13 or earlier if a successor is chosen before then, came as a surprise to Washington.

Meyer wrote the directors that the bank now was passing from the "preliminary work of preparation" and that he felt it would need someone to serve as permanent head. He noted that he had been asked to launch the bank and had not been expected to serve indefinitely.

World Federation Idea Growing In Popularity

By MARC J. PARSONS

New York, (NEA.)—Against a background of United Nations debate over the controversial veto power and the discord among major powers which has arisen in the first year of peace, half a dozen organizations are working feverishly on plans for new and stronger world government.

How far they will get depends in a large measure upon the success of the infant United Nations in dealing with the world's ills, but public opinion polls indicate that today a majority of U. S. citizens feel some means must be found to provide a stronger world government if peace is to be maintained.

Already a dozen or more state legislatures have passed resolutions which in varying degrees recommend that U. S. take the lead in creating a world federal government. The Protestant Episcopal church has approved the idea of federal democracy on a world wide scale. Several veteran groups and state labor organizations have given the ideas backing.

Some of the organizations are finding their greatest strength in the traditionally isolationist middle west. In Chicago, the Students for Federal World Government, an organization which began several months ago on the campus at Northwestern University, in nearby Evanston, is preparing for a world youth peace conference scheduled for later this month.

Unlike most of the other groups working for an international federation of national governments, the Students for Federal World Government believe that individual effort is worth more than dollar support. Its members are asked not for financial contributions but for one hour's work each week in behalf of the cause. The group is training teams of contact men who hope to visit all colleges and universities in the country this year talking up the idea.

Toy Guns Burned

Some of these men, many of them combat veterans, feel so strongly about the matter that they are throwing up the college careers to devote full time to the organization. Their enthusiasm is spreading. A young war widow, mother of two children, donated $1,000 of her personal insurance bond to help promote a rally at Soldier Field, Chicago. A group of grade school children, catching the fever, burned their toy guns.

Another such organization, the Student Federalists, claiming 3500 members in some 80 colleges and universities is seeking "world government in our time."

The Student Federalists' program follows the general line of the World Federalists USA which was formed from six smaller groups who want a federal world government with power to enforce its laws upon individuals everywhere. The World Federalists USA believe such a world government should have its own congress, police and courts, an end which they believe can be achieved either by amending the present UN charter or calling a world constitutional convention.

Elv Culbertson, bridge expert turned internationalist, has long been one of the leading proponents of a world union and was actively identified with World Federation, Inc., and Fight for Total Peace, Inc., movements which have been absorbed by Citizens Committee for United Nations Reform, a grass root movement originating in the middle west. Culbertson is acting chairman of the new organization. In the main, its idea follows his earlier "Quota Force Plan" which would establish an independent UN military force, abolish the UN veto, outlaw the atomic bomb, limit national armaments by quotas and by inspections.

Russia Uninterested

Another amalgamation of several groups is the Americans United for World Government. Its component parts had worked for adoption of the UN charter in pre-atomic days and with the bombing of Hiroshima decided some stronger world government was needed. They now want to amend the UN charter with this in mind.

One of the oldest in the field is Federal Union, the baby of Clarence Streit who once advocated union with Britain and now has widened his field to include all democratic countries.

So far the various plans have attracted the attention and support of such men as former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts; Robert Hutchins, Chancellor of the University of Chicago; Robert L. Lund, one-time president of the National Association of Manufacturers; CIO president Philip Murray, Socialist Norman Thomas, and others.

The Communists are for the most part avoiding them like poison because their international character is contrary to the party's present strong nationalistic line. Ilya Ehrenburg, Soviet newspaperman who toured U. S. this year, heard of the proposals and described them as "fantastic" schemes of "provincial Utopians" in a report written on his return to Russia.

Russia's lack of interest doesn't particularly bother the planners, many of whom recommend going ahead with or without Russia's support.

Girl Abandoned By Michigan Parents Jailed In Colorado

Canon City, Colo., Dec. 4 (AP)—A 17-year-old "slip of a girl," apparently "abandoned" by her parents in Dowagiac, Mich., was sentenced to 10 to 12 years at hard labor today as an accomplice in an assault with intent to murder a Colorado filling station operator.

She is pie-tailed Doris Marie Stutsman, sentenced by District Judge J. D. Blunt, who gave her a companion, Werner Carl Schwartzmiller, 30, also of Dowagiac, 40 to 42 years under Colorado's habitual criminal act.

The pair were found guilty of assaulting Thomas O'Haver, a Salida, Colo., filling station operator last April 16.

Judge Blunt said he would permit Miss Stutsman to apply for probation if proper arrangements could be made, adding:

"It is glaringly apparent this slip of a girl has been abandoned by her parents and relatives in Dowagiac because she has been in jail since last April with no contact from relatives except one letter from her mother."

Two-Pants Suits Not Coming Back

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—The Civilian Production Administration today eliminated its order channelling rayon lining materials to manufacturers of women's street wear but said its controls will remain indefinitely on linings for men's and boy's suits.

A CPA official said the continuation of controls on men's clothing indicates "strongly" that it also will retain indefinitely its prohibition against two-pants suits and vests for double-breasted suits.

BIG RAILWAYS BATTLE GOV'T

Five Important Cases Before U. S. Courts And ICC

By FEDER EDSON

Washington—(NEA)—Five important railroad cases now before the federal courts and the Interstate Commerce Commission, and coming up in the next Congress, fit together in a jigsaw puzzle that pictures a battle of the railroad giants against the government. At stake is the whole future of U. S. transportation policy—whether it is to have free-enterprise competition or monopoly control.

The first case to consider is the application of 46 major railroads for ICC approval of their offer to buy and operate the Pullman company's sleeping-car service. In the closing session of these hearings in Washington, Jacob Aronson, counsel for the New York Central and the 45 other railroads in this pool, stated that his clients would like a decision by the ICC on this application before the Supreme Court can hear arguments on another case to decide the same issue. The importance of this statement will appear later.

Before going into that, however, a little background may be necessary. In May, 1944, after an anti-trust suit by the government, Pullman, Inc., was ordered to sell either its car manufacturing business or its sleeping-car service. It chose to sell the sleeping-car service, and in December, 1945, the Philadelphia U. S. District Court approved sale of it to the railroad pool for $75 million.

Time Is Of The Essence

Three months later the Department of Justice asked the Supreme Court to bar the sale, on the grounds that ownership and operation of the sleeping-car service by the railroads would merely perpetuate the monopoly that the court had ordered dissolved. Basis of this contention was the claim that the railroads and the Pullman company had interlocking directors and the same top financial control.

This case has been set for argument before the Supreme Court in January. The desire of the railroads to get the ICC to approve this sale now is obviously a maneuver to present the Supreme Court with government approval of the deal by the ICC.

Two other railroad anti-trust cases fit into the same general picture-puzzle. First is an action against the western railroads and their top financial-controlling interests, in the U. S. District Court at Lincoln, Neb. Briefly, the government's charge is that through monopolistic control, development of the western railroads has been retarded, and that through rate-fixing agreements, competition has been stifled and the industrial development of the west suppressed.

This Lincoln case was begun in 1944, but was held up by the war. It had been set for trial in December. But recently the railroad attorneys have been pressing for delay of the Lincoln case until after the Supreme Court can dispose of the so-called Georgia rate case.

This was a suit initiated by Gov. Ellis Arnall on behalf of the State of Georgia, charging that discriminatory freight rates were charged southern shippers by agreements dictated to railroads of the south and east by their common controlling ownership.

The Georgia case has been set for hearing before a special master next March. After hearing, the special master must report to the Court, which will then hand down its decision. There is little chance that this decision can be made before the end of the present term of the Court in June. That gives the railroads time to move in another direction.

Time is of value in these cases because a new Republican Congress convenes in January. And among the bills which just missed passage by the last Congress, but will be up for a second try next year, is the famous Bulwinkle bill. All it would do is exempt the railroads from all action under the anti-trust laws.

If the Bulwinkle bill can be passed early in the next Congress, the troubles which the railroad financiers have been having with the government will be practically over. The Georgia and Lincoln anti-trust cases would have to be dropped. The Supreme Court and the Department of Justice would be powerless to prevent sale of the Pullman car service to the railroads.

Negro Tortured To Admit Murder Granted Freedom

Chicago, Dec. 4. (AP)—A 37-year-old negro who escaped Mississippi prison won freedom in federal court today when he related he confessed killing a man only after his chest was burned with a blow torch and his fingers broken by a sheriff.

Costell Jones, Chicago, stripped to the waist in the court of Judge Elwyn R. Shaw and displayed scars of serious burns on his chest and wrists on his back. He also declared he was beaten.

Jones related he was sentenced in August, 1941, to life imprisonment on a charge of murdering Clay McComb, a white man.

The negro said he was riding in a taxi driven by a white man when the driver stopped on a highway and began arguing with McComb. In an ensuing fight, the driver shot McComb, Jones testified, then gave Jones the gun and told him to sell it.

Jones was arrested after selling the gun. He told Judge Shaw that Sheriff John T. Smith tortured him until he signed a confession.

After his arrest recently on an extradition warrant from Mississippi, Jones applied to the federal court for release on a writ of habeas corpus which was granted.

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bedtime.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.

ANGERED BOSS OF MINERS TO APPEAL CASE

Lewis's lawyers shouted that the sentence was "cruel." Welly K. Hopkins, UMW chief counsel, made a raging, emotional protest in which he roared that the government, to further the administration's political aims, was seeking to "break the union politically."

delivery of 218 tons of coal today. Supt. H. L. Shibley said the delivery will permit the city's 7,500 pupils to attend classes 10 more days.

Dowagiac met the coal shortage head on when Mayor J. L. Black, acting with the approval of the city council, hired 300 wood choppers to cut timber in surrounding wooded areas. The expected 30 cords of furnace-length wood daily will be piled in a downtown lot for distribution to coal dealers when they run out of coal. Black said the wood was intended for domestic use.

Airlines were preparing to resume the war-time practice of carrying freight on seats unoccupied by passengers and truckers were seeking means of increasing their loads.

Railroads, already operating under a 25 per cent reduction in passenger schedules, were under government orders to cut service another 25 per cent at midnight Sunday. Schedules of the new cancellations were incomplete.

The dimout saved the Detroit Edison Co. 900 tons of coal during the week ending Dec. 1. Angus C. McCloy, sales manager, announced.

financially, and morally." Lewis got up and grasped his hand and as Hopkins' eyes gleamed with tears, Lewis said he subscribed to every word.

Go To Highest Court

It was agreed that if Lewis and the union lost bond for their fines and file their appeals by tomorrow at 2 P. M. (CST), they won't have to pay them until their appeal is decided. In normal course the case would go to the U. S. circuit court of appeals here, but federal lawyers have said they would ask that it go straight to the supreme court instead.

Joseph A. Padway, AFL general counsel, said bond will be posted for Lewis's $10,000 but as to the union fine, he said the court could not compel the union to pay it and the union itself will decide what to do about it.

A deputy chief marshal said if bond is not posted on the fine, the government can "undertake to seize the properties" of the union. The $350,000 fines average out at $250,000 a day for each of the 14 days Lewis has defied Goldsborough's order to call off his contract termination notice—a notice which set off the nation-wide soft coal strike of 400,000 miners.

"Cruel and unusual punishment" roared defense counsel in a turbulent court session which saw Judge Goldsborough advise Lewis not to risk another contempt citation.

John L. Gets Angry

This occurred during an angry speech by Lewis, during which he rumbled out a charge that government lawyers were "lying."

There had been a discussion of Lewis's assets, with a view to settling his fine, and Lewis said:

"Sir, I have no objection to saying that I have the salary mentioned by the government spokesman.

"When he said I had an expense account that I determined myself, he lied to the court. He did it deliberately because he said he had read the constitution (of the union)."

"I have a home in Alexandria, Va., not conveyable. I have a home in Springfield, Ill., not conveyable. Beyond that and my salary ($25,000 a year), I have only enough to meet my expenses."

Here Lewis' voice became a snarl.

"But don't let that deter you," he snapped at the judge. "You can levy on me any amount you—"

"Don't get in contempt of court, I advise you, sir," said Goldsborough, interrupting.

"Sir, I have been adjudged in contempt," Lewis replied.

"There could be another contempt proceeding," the court reminded Lewis.

Lewis seemed determined to continue the discussion, but his lawyers were tugging at his sleeve.

He glanced at them, then sat down.

The union was reported by its officers at a recent convention to have about $13,500,000 in its treasury. It also owns valuable real estate, including the headquarters building here.

The judge continued that the first act of a dictatorship would be to destroy labor unions.

"As far as the miners themselves are concerned it is a case of father forgive them for they know not what they do," he said.

Ku Klux-Bund Link Probed During New Crackdown On Klan

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington—(AP)—The Federal government and states in the north and south, the east and west are "cracking down" on a revival of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Justice Department, which in midsummer launched an investigation of Ku Klux operations in seven states, is considering extending the inquiry to other states. The department also is probing reports of a revival under new names of the German-American Bund and the possibility of an alliance of Bund groups and the Klan.

Department officials say they have evidence of Klan-Bund collaboration before the war to promote racial and religious dissension. The evidence is said to indicate also that the two organizations considered forming an anti-labor third party in an effort to align other elements of the population against labor.

Last May Georgia Klan leaders proclaimed a rebirth of the "invisible empire" at a fiery cross gathering on historic Stone Mountain near Atlanta. Since then, courts in California, New York, Kentucky and New Jersey have revoked state charters of the hooded order.

Georgia, historic national headquarters of the Klan, also has brought suit to dissolve the order's state charter. A report on an investigation by state police of Klan activities in Pennsylvania has been turned over to the Department of Justice by Governor Martin.

The U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue has filed suit in Atlanta to recover $685,000 income taxes alleged to be owed by the Klan for the years 1921 through 1924 and for 1926.

Among alleged post-war Klan activities reported to federal and state officials are: the circulation of large amounts of anti-semitic, anti-catholic and anti-Negro literature; hooded men's warnings of Negroes against voting and joining unions; threats against CIO and AFL union organizers from persons representing themselves as Klansmen.

The Klan, relatively dormant during the war, is not believed to be very strong now. However, officials want to prevent a recurrence of KKK activity like that which followed World War I.

In the mid-twenties the Klan had an estimated 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 members. In large sections of the midwest and far west it was a political power.

In hundreds of communities, from Oregon to Massachusetts, religious and racial prejudice turned neighbor against neighbor. Martial law was declared by the governor of Ohio, and 104 men were indicted after a battle between Klan and anti-Klan factions in Niles, O.

Organizers depicted the aim of the secret order as "100 percent Americanism." Their definition of a "100 percent" was "a native, white, protestant American." In Indianapolis, a department store named "the 100 percent store" had an electric sign displaying the fiery cross. Several towns had "100 per cent restaurants."

Many business men, unsympathetic with the Klan's objectives, felt they had to pay $10 kleeckens (initiation fees) or buy advertising in Klan magazine to avoid boycott. Klansmen took it upon themselves to raid illicit liquor establishments. Some bootleggers joined the "invisible empire" in the hope of getting protection.

In August 1925 some 40,000 knights and ladies, robed but unmasked, paraded in Washington from the Capitol to the Washington monument. The parade was headed by Imperial Wizard Hiram Wesley Evans, resplendent in a purple robe with gold trimmings. In the procession were exalted cyclops, grand goblins, kligriffs, king kleeagles, klogores, kluxerettes and queens of the golden mask.

The order boasted 400,000 members in Indiana, where the Grand Dragon of the Hosiery Realm, D. C. Stephenson, was the reputed state boss of the Republican party.

Stephenson's trial and conviction in 1925 for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, state-house employee, was a sensational episode of the Klan era.

The prosecution contended that Stephenson, with the aid of his two bodyguards, kidnaped Miss Oberholzer, took her from Indianapolis to a hotel in Hammond, Ind., assaulted her and, after she drank poison, refused to get medical air for her.

The defense argued that Miss Oberholzer had gone with Stephenson of her own free will and that his prosecution was political. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to prison for life. His two bodyguards were acquitted. A few months ago, Stephenson appealed to the Indiana supreme court for release from prison, his 40th futile legal effort to obtain freedom.

The Stephenson case was a heavy blow to the Klan. Kansas' William Allen White and such influential newspapers as the New York World, the Kansas City Star and the Brooklyn Eagle had been waging campaigns against it. Membership fell off rapidly, although there was an epidemic of fiery cross burning during Alfred E. Smith's race for the Presidency in 1928.

Imperial Wizard James A. Cole-scott in 1943 said the Klan had abandoned its national organization.

Impending Housing Program

DESPITE all of the special programs adopted in Washington purportedly to spur the national housing program, home construction still constitutes the most serious domestic problem confronting the nation today. The results of the past year have been very disheartening, which in itself should be reason enough to change the program in the hope of attaining better results.

The present restriction on home construction by non-veterans does not help to improve the housing picture because it fails to take into account the large percentage of veterans who are not interested at the moment in buying a home, but would prefer to rent. Many veterans who are now buying new or old homes are doing so simply because they urgently need housing facilities and can find nothing to rent.

If the ban on non-veterans housing construction were eliminated, however, it would result in a sharp increase in the number of new homes that would be built in the next 12 months, not only in Escanaba but throughout the nation. Naturally this would result in more rental homes for veterans and because new construction would ease the pressure of the housing shortage, it would serve also as a check rein on rentals, even if the rent control program is abandoned next year which seems likely.

Elimination of the ban on non-veterans housing would probably accomplish more real good in solving the nation's housing problems than all of the pump priming deals that the Washington bureaucrats can compound. And it would be as helpful to war veterans seeking housing facilities as it would be to non-veterans who are anxious to build, even with the present high building costs.

Liquor Sales to Minors

THE Michigan liquor control commission plans to assist licensed liquor establishment in the vexing problem of keeping minors away from drinking places. A statewide educational program is under way and the commission will ask the state legislature to make persons under 21 equally responsible with liquor establishments for illegal sales to minors.

Almost without exception, tavern keepers do not want minors in their establishments. At present the entire burden for such violations rests with the barkeepers. The deterring effect of making the minor also responsible would in itself be a considerable help in solving the problem.

Several communities have already adopted this principle in city ordinances and it was presented to the Escanaba city council by the Delta county tavern keepers without success. As a state law, however, it would be uniform throughout Michigan. There is no other way in which the control of liquor sales of minors can be accomplished.

Not Made in U. S. A.

CHRISTMAS tree lights, bearing the pre-war "Made in Japan" label, and toys from Germany have arrived in this country and are being offered to Christmas shoppers.

It will be interesting to see how the goods produced by our former enemies in World War II will fare in the American market. Shortly after the Pearl Harbor incident, there was such a revulsion of feeling against the Japanese that many folks destroyed the Japanese articles for which they had paid good money.

There is more in the importation of Japanese and German goods than appears on the surface, however. Our state department arranged the deal as one of the first steps to make Japan and Germany self-supporting. Since our former enemies have been denied the right to operate heavy industries that could be converted to war-making in the future, they must resort to the manufacture of toys and other trinkets.

It may seem odd to many, but the resumption of normal trade relations are a necessary part of the promoting of peace and good will with other nations. We cannot remain unfriendly forever.

Selling A City

BUSINESS WEEK reports that a new note in municipal promotion was sounded recently when a permanent display of the products of the major industries of Indianapolis was opened in the waiting room of that city's Union station.

The industrial exposition, which is sponsored by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, has more than seventy exhibits. About 3,000,000 persons pass through the terminal annually. The exhibition never closes and attendants are always on duty to answer questions and to furnish additional information that may be requested about the exhibitors and their products.

This probably would be a good idea for the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, which has taken the lead in a successful movement to bring new industries. There wouldn't be adequate space for a display of Escanaba's industrial products in the railroad station, but an exhibition at the Upper Peninsula State Fair next year would give the public a real eyeful.

Not Poorest Paid

MANY people, observing the apparently endless labor troubles that beset the soft coal industry, may come to the conclusion that the miners are an overworked lot, laboring long hours at starvation wages.

Some facts recently released by the National Coal association deserve attention. In August, the average weekly earnings of bituminous coal miners was $62.37, a higher average weekly earnings figure than reported by any other industry in the United States. It was 161.18 per cent higher than in 1939. The rise in the cost of living between 1939 and August, 1946, on the other hand, was 44.6 per cent, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The coal miners' hourly earnings in August averaged $1.467, an increase of 63.8 per cent over 1941. So, whether wages are figured on a weekly or an hourly basis, it is apparent that they have far outrun rises in the cost of living. They indicate that John L. Lewis is not so much concerned with wages and hours as he is with ruthless domination of the coal industry.

Other Editorial Comments

PLUG THE LOOPHOLES (Grand Rapids Press)

Col. Philip C. Pack, director of the state office of veterans affairs, has reminded the state legislature that if Michigan isn't going to have to pay a bonus to almost 60,000 veterans who don't claim this state as their home something will have to be done about the residence requirement set by this year's special session. As matters now stand, any veteran who resided in Michigan for a period of six months prior to his induction is eligible to receive a bonus. Paying them could, according to Pack's estimate, cost the state as much as $18,000,000.

Nobody seems to know why the legislature chose to disregard the one-year residence provision written into other Michigan laws in drafting its bonus plan. But in electing to make it six months it blanketed in thousands of young men who had registered under selective service in other states and than had migrated to Michigan to work in war industries until called up. Pack says that only a few of them have returned to this state since being separated from the service. In the majority of instances, therefore, they are at no time appeared to have any intention of making Michigan their place of residence. And certainly in all questions concerning legal residence, intent is one of the most important points.

Two things obviously should be done to rectify the legislature's error: One is to bring the residence requirement into conformity with that of other state laws, and the other is to plug the loophole which will relieve the state of having to pay bonuses to veterans who only accidentally established residence here. In other words, the "intent principle" should be protected. The fact that such a step is necessary is indicated in Pack's disclosure that his office daily is receiving numerous inquiries from out-of-state veterans who want to know how their bonus is coming along.

Michigan has voted to pay its veterans a bonus, but the voters certainly didn't agree thereby to take on the responsibility of other states. It's up to the next legislature to see that they aren't made the unwitting victims of a carelessness in drafting the bonus plan.

RHUBARB GOES ARISTOCRATIC (Christian Science Monitor)

Fruit and vegetables are in conflict again. This time the former is laying definite claim to rhubarb—a claim that a court has been asked to sustain. After a long period of controversy, the tomato was snatched from the vegetable family and set up as a fruit. Then along came the melon with a "me too" claim to whatever aristocracy may be attached to the fruit group, and apparently won out sufficiently to be given a fruit rating by Mr. Webster.

Even the nut has gained recognition as a hard-shelled fruit, and one wonders what other deserts are facing the vegetable family. The poor squash that may lie in friendship alongside the melon in the garden apparently is destined to remain a vegetable. Likewise the ever-popular celery, the stem of which bears a striking resemblance to the somewhat larger stalk of rhubarb. But, come what may, whether vegetable or fruit, the rhubarb bit, with its strips of flaky crust across the top, still takes the cake.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Q. To settle an office disagreement, will you please pass on the following sentence: "A copy of my letter to Mr. Smith, together with his letter (are? is? enclosed)." —V. M. C.

A. My assistant, Dr. Etain Shridu (who at one time was headmaster at Boggle Academy, Teetering on the Verge), explains it thus: "Harumph! Ah-h-h—voluptuous conjunctions, such as 'with, along with, together with, including,' et cetera are not equivalent, in affecting the number of the subject, to 'and,' Harumph!"

What old Doc S. means by that typically dogmatic Shriduianism is that such conjunctions, unlike "and," do not make the subject plural. Note the singular verbs in these correct sentences:

A copy of my letter, together with his letter, is enclosed.

The man, as well as his children was invited.

The door opened and a woman with

Washington—While the case of John L. Lewis vs. the United States is being heard in federal district court here, President Truman feels that he should not go over the head of the mine workers' boss to appeal to the miners themselves. That is why the current week is likely to end as it began—in continuing legalism and a stalemate.

Childs

The White House has been under persistent pressure to take the government's case direct to the men who are sitting out the strike. No one in authority has come forward to tell them what the stakes are in this contest, with all its tragic meaning for America and the world.

The President is being urged to get both Gen. Eisenhower and Secretary of State Byrnes to go on the air in direct appeals to the strikers. They could present most effectively the picture of what the loss in coal means to the United States in relation to western Europe and the German occupation.

—MINERS ARE CONFUSED—

The President has been studying the possibilities of a personal radio appeal. But he believes it would be improper so long as the case is being argued in court. While that may be in accord with the proprieties, it does leave the country with a curious sense that the coal crisis is occurring in a vacuum. Or, rather, it is as though it were happening behind a screen, with the public permitted to see only the shadowy outlines of the chief contentions.

The silence the President is enforcing on himself seems to leave the government leaderless in what is certainly the sharpest test of power in many years. Reports from the field say the miners are puzzled and confused. They are not quite sure of the ground they stand on.

They remember back to the time, shortly after VJ-Day, when the administration in Washington assured them they were entitled to wage increases. With that went administration approval of a cut of about six billion dollars in taxes, including the excess-profits tax. Now, while their average weekly pay has been fairly high, the miners, along with most workers, are feeling the pinch of spiraling prices.

They lost 59 days' pay in the strike of last spring and their union does not dispense strike benefits. So they are in a cheerless and increasingly sullen frame of mind as they read the violent criticisms of their leader. While a direct appeal might be that much wasted breath, it's just possible the miners would be receptive to the story of the fearful effects of the loss of millions of tons of coal at this critical moment in history.

—LOOK TO CONGRESS—

The hope of a private settlement between the operators and the union seems, for the time being at least, to have gone glimmering. There are stiff-necked operators who look to the incoming congress to solve their union problems. They see no reason to deal with Lewis at this point.

They remember back to the good old days before 1933 when Lewis' union was so torn by inner dissension that its effectiveness was almost nil. That, of course, was when coal was a very sick industry. The depression hit the mines harder than almost any other segment of the American economy.

For both operators and miners, there is a significant signpost in Great Britain. Because of the inertia of British operators and the pressure of British miners, the industry failed to modernize. The output per man-hour is much smaller than it is in this country. Now Britain's mines are to be nationalized. On January 1, the labor government will take them over in what Laborite Herbert Morrison has said will be a severe test of whether a Socialist regime can successfully run an ailing industry.

In a recent speech, Morrison called coal the key to peace in Europe. He pleaded with the British miners to increase their output so that hungry, cold Europeans could go to work again. If the British can step up production—and Morrison claimed a 6 per cent increase in the last eleven months—British Socialists would be able to argue the superiority of their system over ours.

Some trade-unionists in this country are beginning to talk about nationalization as the only solution for our coal industry. That would certainly not please Lewis, who regards himself as a defender of private enterprise. By the ruthlessness of his tactics, he may make inevitable the very thing he professes to dread.

three children was ushered in.

His hand, also Mary's was raised. Mary's dress, like her mother's, is yellow.

In other words, clauses like "together with his letter" stand outside of the sentence as parenthetical remarks which are not essential to the meaning. They do not, therefore, become additional subjects.

In fact, many such sentences can be reworded, placing the clause at the end, thus showing clearly that the clause affects neither the subject nor the verb: The man was invited, as well as his children. Mary's dress is yellow, like her mother's. The door opened and a woman entered with three children.

Of course, two subjects connected by "and" require a plural verb, thus: The man and his children were invited. The door opened and a woman and three children were ushered in. A copy of my letter and his letter are enclosed.

AGRICULTURE—What is agriculture? There have been many definitions, but James Porter, member of the Detroit Board of Commerce Agricultural research committee, the other evening at the Cornell venison supper sponsored by winners of the 1946 county potato growing contest, defined it as "the basis for prosperity."

Danathan

The program for the advancement of Michigan agriculture undertaken by the Detroit Board of Commerce in cooperation with Michigan State College was started about two years ago.

"People are beginning to realize that prosperity and depression cycles start on the farm," said Porter. "If the farmer prospers, so does the nation."

FOR INDUSTRY—It may have surprised many of the potato growers at the meeting when Porter declared that about 60 per cent of the raw materials used in industry in this country come from the farm.

The farmer produces and creates, industry is simply methods of processing, Porter added. Prosperity begins in the soil he said—and he might have added that poverty begins in the lack of soil. For few farmers without ample tillable acres of fertile soil are either prosperous or their people progressive.

MAINTAIN THE CITY—The prosperity of the city is an artificial thing, As Porter pointed out, industry does not create, it processes raw materials that come from the soil. This is not meant by Porter, we are sure, either to belittle industry or to detract from the prestige of the cities.

Porter simply pointed out a truth that is not generally recognized. The farmer tilling the soil not only provides food for the people of the cities, he also gives his sons and daughters to add to the population of the cities. Porter said that birth rates of city people alone are not sufficient to make a city grow in population, and that if it were not for the large farm family, some of whose members find their way to the cities, the cities would dwindle and die out.

And it is from the "new blood" that the cities gain their most aggressive and vigorous leadership, Porter added. Surveys reveal that the majority of the nations business and industrial leaders were farm born and moved to the city at an early age to "make their fortune."

PROSPERITY—The Detroit Board of Commerce in sponsoring a program for the advancement of agriculture has a selfish motive in view—the continued prosperity of the Detroit area. Yet that can only be accomplished if the state as a whole is prosperous, and the state cannot be prosperous unless the farmer is successful, Porter said.

"If the farmers prosper, so do the communities. And the greater purchasing power of the communities and the people in general, the more demand for industrial products," he added. "No area can be prosperous unless it is supported by prosperity among the people who surround it."

SOUNDS UNSELFISH—Although the Detroit Board of Commerce program is understandably designed to bring benefit to the area it represents, still it will aid the entire state—perhaps the nation. For from the program will

The New York Times, in a London dispatch, tonight asserted that conflict between King Edward and his cabinet has resulted in a "crisis" involving the possible abdication of the king tomorrow. It also reports rumors that Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson would leave the country tomorrow and that the King might go with her.

Anxiety was felt tonight for the safety of Captain James Mollison as searchers planned to leave at dawn to hunt for the flier and his French co-pilot, Edward Molivier, missing on a flight from London to the cape.

Mrs. Catherine Bartley, 1101 Fifth avenue south, was called to Green Bay yesterday on account of the death of her brother-in-law, C. E. Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mathews, 322 South 19th street, are the parents of a son, born Dec. 1 at St. Francis hospital.

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nichol, 512 First avenue south, at St. Francis hospital.

20 Years Ago—1926 Mickey Walker, former world's welterweight champion, won the world's middleweight title tonight when Referee Benny Younger awarded him the decision after ten furious rounds. The verdict first drew a round of bores but the crowd quickly broke into cheers.

Precipitation of 3.81 inches during the month of November as compared with a normal rainfall of 2.26 reduced the deficiency for the first eleven months, and brought the total back to normal. This season promised to be the first in several years which won't fall short in average precipitation.

Mrs. Ellen Heric, 615 First avenue south, was pleasantly surprised at her home Wednesday when 18 friends came to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. Card playing was the main feature of the evening with prizes going to Mrs. J. Ketchum, Mrs. A. Arbour, and Sylvia Raiche.

some benefits which will find nation-wide application.

Porter spoke of industries loaning their research specialists to Michigan State College to assist in the advancement of agriculture. He also mentioned a study to determine the hospital needs of communities and areas. This survey, he said, is being completed, and the information will soon be made public.

While praising the Michigan department of conservation for what it has done, Porter said that a program of conservation of Michigan's natural resources could be greatly extended to the benefit of the people. Conservation of soil would be of material assistance in assuring continued productivity, and would end the threat of agricultural, industrial and economic bankruptcy in the future.

RESEARCH—From the standpoint of agricultural research, Porter's description of radiant heat to combat frost damage most aroused our curiosity. The Detroit Edison company, Michigan State College and the Detroit Board of Commerce are all working on frost control units this winter, and some of them will be tested in western orchards before spring.

Porter said he foresaw a future in which such units would be used to protect Michigan potato fields, cherry and peach orchards. Sprinklers, wind machines and

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Two weeks ago this column told how John L. Lewis had paid out around $300,000 of miners' dues to a Springfield, Ill., mine owner, Carl Elshoff, to keep his mine closed.

It is now possible to reveal that since publication of that column, the treasury department has taken the John L. Lewis-United Mine Workers income tax return out of the files and is studying it with a view to possible prosecution.

Back in 1943, the treasury had probed this payment to mine-owner Carl Elshoff, but despite the urging of Secretary Morgenthau, experts finally decided not to prosecute.

The facts in the case are that Elshoff closed his coal mines on May 12, 1937 and remained closed for nearly two years, during which he received around $300,000 from Lewis, who at that time was trying to throw out of work a rival union employed by Elshoff which had won an election under the Wagner Act. Since he couldn't win out under the Wagner Act, Lewis closed the mine.

Later he reported the expenditure of the $300,000 in his tax return, but Elshoff failed to report the $300,000 as income.

Thus the treasury appeared at first to have a case against Elshoff and not against Lewis. However, when Lewis discovered that the treasury was probing the matter, a series of notes were sent by Elshoff to Lewis to make the transaction appear as a loan. However, the treasury claimed it had evidence that the notes were predated and that this loan was pure afterthought to cover up the fact that Elshoff had failed to pay taxes on the money.

It was—and still is—the contention of treasury experts that Lewis was guilty of conspiracy in helping Elshoff avoid income taxes. This was the ground on which the treasury in 1943 wanted to prosecute. It finally decided not to on the grounds that it would be interpreted by a jury as labor persecution.

Now that the treasury has dusted off the case and looked into it again, the decision may be different—if the statute of limitations has not run.

NOTE—Some very big tax scandals will leak out of the treasury-justice departments soon. Certain big war contractors who know the right people got off scot free. It will be the worst scandal yet of the Truman administration.

—STEEL TROUBLES—

CIO President Philip Murray is worried about the coal strike for many reasons.

For one thing, tens of thousands of steel workers are being laid off. More important, the coal strike is threatening to wipe out the 15 billion dollars in profits big business built up during 1946.

Murray was hoping to base new wage claims on these profits so as not to cause new price increases. If the strike continues until after January 1, the CIO may have to remap its whole wage-increase drive.

SHOWDOWN OVER U. S. AMBASSADOR It isn't being whispered outside the state department, but Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden is laying it right on the line before Secretary Byrnes that George Messersmith, U. S. Ambassador to Argentina, must be fired.

The Roly-Poly Braden has long contended that Messersmith was too friendly to Argentine President Peron and disloyal to the state department's anti-dictator policy. Now, however, Braden has secured about fifty secret letters written by Messersmith to American newsmen and state department officials denouncing Braden personally together with state department policy toward Argentina.

Braden, who looks soft but is tough, will use these letters in a final showdown with Jimmy Byrnes. If Byrnes doesn't act in regard to Messersmith, Braden will resign. This, of course, would be a stupendous victory for Dictator Peron, who made it quite clear in his letter to Andrew Jackson Higgins, the New Orleans boat builder, that he was conspiring to get Braden removed.

—ANDY HIGGINS' TAXES—

People who know the real inside regarding Andy Higgins are wondering how come he is commissioned to trot around South America as a sort of unofficial ambassador.

Eyebrows are especially arched among those who know how Andy Higgins got behind in paying about a million dollars in income taxes during the 1944 election campaign.

At that time Higgins was chairman of the businessmen for Roosevelt committee, and was slated to make an important speech in Philadelphia introducing FDR to a big campaign crowd. Night before the speech, however, Higgins got word that Henry Morgenthau's tax collectors had been going through his New Orleans plant and found him behind in taxes to the tune of around $1,000,000. Furthermore, the tax collectors were getting quite ugly about payment.

At this point Uncle Andy nearly burst. Calling in Roosevelt friends, he told them that next day, instead of introducing Roosevelt, he would come out publicly for Dewey.

Finally Henry Morgenthau was persuaded to call off his treasury dogs for the time being, and Higgins made his Philadelphia speech. Later he retained the law firm of Hugh Fulton, former counsel to the Truman committee, to help handle his tax matters. It is understood the taxes are being paid up on the installment plan.

NOTE—Hugh Fulton, once one of the closest men to Harry Truman, accompanied Higgins on his unofficial ambassadorial tour of Argentina.

Q. My son will be discharged about the 15th of next month. I am now receiving a Class B-1 family allowance of $50 per month. Will I be entitled to receive the allowance for the complete month even though he serves only through the 15th of the month?

A. You are entitled to receive a family allowance payment for the full month in which your son is discharged, regardless of the date within the month. In other words, your last payment will be received early in the next month following his release from service.

Q. Has the Army reinstated its regulations which provide for the purchase of a discharge?

A. No.

Q. What is the difference between marten and martin?

A. Marten is a fur-bearing animal of the weasel kind, and martin is a bird of the swallow family.

Q. What is the origin of the word bungalow?

A. The anglicization of the Hindustani bungalow, which the natives called bang-a-la, meaning of or belonging to Bengal.

Q. Can a person be sucked down by quick sand?

A. No. Quick sand merely holds a person.

Q. Why does bluing make linen white?

A. Blue and yellow when mixed produces white. Therefore dark blue is used to take the yellowish tint from white clothes.

Q. Do boxers place their thumbs under or on top of their fingers while boxing?

A. The thumb is doubled over the second and third fingers to avoid sprains when hitting.

Q. What is the oldest university in the U. S.?

A. Harvard.

Q. When was the Bible first translated into English?

A. In 1535 by an Englishman named Miles Coverdale.

L. BASIL DIED OF BLOOD CLOT

Autopsy Shows Coronary
Thrombosis; Wife To Get Sanity Test

Louis Basil, North Western railroad boilermaker whose body was found on the floor in his home at 400 South 16th street nearly a week after his death, died of coronary thrombosis—a blood clot in the brain—it was revealed in an autopsy performed yesterday.

Basil's wife, Lulu, who twice before had received treatment for a mental ailment at Newberry state hospital, was alone with the body when police entered the house Tuesday afternoon to serve a legal paper. The body was lying on the floor near a bed and was frozen, police reported. Mrs. Basil told officers her husband died the day before Thanksgiving.

Taken to the county jail for care, Mrs. Basil will receive a sanity examination today in the office of Probate Judge William Miller.

Born in Escanaba about 58 years ago, Basil was employed most of his life by the North Western railroad company. He worked for the company prior to 1914, and after an absence from the city returned to a job as boilermaker's apprentice helper. He has been a boilermaker for the railroad since 1926, and was a member of the Boilermakers' Union No. 597.

He is survived by his widow and one nephew, Harry, of Toledo, O. A brother, John, of that city, died in 1942.

The body will be in state at the Anderson funeral home this afternoon, and funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday with the Rev. John Anderson of Covenant Mission church officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery.

DSS&A Promotes Henry J. Beaudry

Marquette—Henry J. Beaudry, 1041 Pine street, has been promoted from chief clerk to assistant general freight agent of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway company, effective Dec. 1, it was announced this morning by A. C. Stenberg, South Shore traffic manager.

Mr. Beaudry was first employed by the South Shore in September, 1919, when he accepted a position in the accounting department. He was transferred in August, 1938, to the traffic department as chief clerk, a position he held until his current promotion.

As assistant general freight agent, he will assume some of the duties of Leonard C. Smith, who Sunday was appointed general freight and passenger agent of the Lake Superior and Ishpeming Railway company to succeed H. A. St. John, retired. Mr. Smith had served as general freight agent of the South Shore since August, 1944, and had completed 17 years of service with the South Shore.

Marquette May Use Quonset As Armory

Marquette—City Manager James R. Pollock last night was instructed by the city commission to investigate and report on the possibility of erecting a Quonset hut west of the Palestra for use as an armory by the National Guard.

The commission also authorized purchase of 1,300 feet of copper wire and cable from the Westinghouse Electric Supply Co., of Green Bay, at a cost of $1,020.53, and instructed Pollock to get bids for purchase of 200,000 or 300,000 gallons of fuel oil for the Diesel electric plants.

Pollock informed the commission 23,000 gallons of oil are being consumed weekly by operation of the Diesel plant and that the supply on hand would last until early January. He sought authority to call for bids on 200,000 gallons, but on suggestion of Commissioners Leo H. Bruce and William H. Schneider, bids for an additional 100,000 gallons will be asked to determine if the cost is less.

A drawing-room originally was called a withdrawing room, and meant a place to withdraw to.

Rotary Troop 453 Has First Meeting

Troop 453 Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Escanaba Rotary Club, held its first meeting under the new leadership of Scoutmasters Edward Reynolds and Allen Earle local volunteer Scouters. The meeting was held in the recreation building.

Also in attendance were committeemen, Carl G. Nelson, Dr. Fred Hirt and O. B. Mason.

The meeting was opened under the direction of resigning Scoutmaster John Edick and the Junior Leaders of the troop, in typical Scout fashion. Mr. Edick introduced the Scouts to the new Scoutmasters, followed by brief remarks by the troop committeemen present.

Nearly 100 per cent attendance of Scouts were present at this meeting, which speaks well of the spirit of the Scouts. The troop has seventeen on its roster. Those present were: Dale Jackson, Wayne Sundquist, George Rouman, Ted Rouman, Charles Wickman, John Brooks, Frederick Johnson, Bill Elliott, Harold Pearson, Don O'Brien, Ben Nelson, David Johnson, Gilbert Bullock, James Moran, and Jack Edick.

A brief introduction as to the program to be developed within the troop was given by assistant Earle, who spoke of extending the advancement program and the hiking possibilities of the unit, with the development of the troop under the leadership of its own members.

The next meeting of the troop will be held Monday evening, at which time all members of the unit, including committeemen, are to be present for the official presentation of the charter and certificates of registration.

Trenary

Trenary, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloan have returned to their home at St. Ignace after spending hunting season at their camp on Cooks Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hythien and boys of Winters spent Thanksgiving Day at the Alonzo Phillips home.

Mrs. Steve Slambo and daughter Helen are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Bresnahan at Menominee this week.

Pupils of the Trenary school are busy selling Christmas seals for the tuberculosis fund this week.

Willard Quarfoot and Robert Quarfoot made a business trip to Pickford and Detour over the week end.

Mrs. James Little and Mrs. John Greene, Trenary, are spending a few days in Milwaukee shopping.

It is estimated that American college students this year face a shortage of 4,500,000 textbooks.

St. Nicholas

St. Nicholas, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer LeClair and their four children returned to their home in Flint Friday, following a weeks visit with relatives here and at Perkins. They also spent two days in Manistiquette.

Johanne Kossow of Escanaba, accompanied by Clement Lachapelle motored to Milwaukee Monday evening where the former transacted business. They returned Tuesday evening.

St. Nicholas members of the Potato Boosters Club who attended the annual venison supper held at the Cornell township hall Monday evening, and which was given by the Escanaba business men, are as follows: Jules Van Damme and son George, Constant Cafmeyer, Marcel and Giles Jodocy, Jule Dupuy, Leonard Arbour, Henry Lachapelle, Matt Ledvina and sons, Peter, Constant and Rene Vermote, Adolph Lippens and sons, Phil Lippens and sons, and Pat DeBacher.

The supper was prepared by the ladies of the Cornell PTA.

Martin Rignon and Jetter Barber, both of Flint, who spent part of the deer hunting season here in St. Nicholas, were successful in bagging their buck before returning home. They stayed at the Ernest Carlson home.

Julius Dusch and Erwin Rengulski, of South Bend, Ind., and Harold Church and Julius Edgely of Van Dyke, Mich., spent a week hunting here from the Gust Klein camp. They downed two bucks and also had the unusual experience of bagging an eight-pointer doe. While here the group also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Heynens.

Misses Alice and Monica Jadocy of Marquette, students at Northern Michigan College of Education, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jadocy.

The Netherlands Indies Island of Bangka provided three-fifths of the Indies' tin output before World War II.

Drive Out Gas that is caused by Constipation and comfort your stomach too

When functional constipation hangs on and makes you feel miserable, nervous and out of sorts and you suffer from its symptoms—headaches, bad breath, upset stomach, indigestion, loss of sleep, lack of appetite, and your stomach feels crowded because of gas and bloating—get Dr. Peter's time-tested KURIKO. More than a laxative, it is also a stomachic tonic medicine compounded of 15 of Nature's own medicinal roots, herbs and botanicals. KURIKO puts sluggish bowels to work and aids them to gently and smoothly expel clinging waste, helps drive out constipation's gas, gives the stomach that splendid feeling of warmth. Caution: Use only as directed. If you again want to know the joy of happy relief from constipation's miseries and comfort your stomach at the same time, get KURIKO today from any Falmey agency such as: City Drug Store; West End Drugs; A. J. Wahl Drugs; Gladstone—Ivory Drugs.

Leslie Devet Jr. returned to Chicago Sunday being taken to the 400 at Escanaba by his parents.

YOU MAY ALWAYS BE CONSTIPATED UNLESS—

You correct faulty living habits—unless bile flows freely every day from your gall bladder into your intestines to help digest fatty foods and guard against constipation.

so use common sense! Drink more water, eat more fruit and vegetables. And if assistance is needed, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They not only assure gentle yet thorough bowel movements but also pep up your lazy bile secretion to help digest fatty foods.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! Used successfully for over 20 years by Dr. F. M. Edwards in treating patients for constipation and sluggish bile, today Olive Tablets are just the choice of thousands upon thousands of grateful users. Test their goodness tonight. Follow label directions, 15c, 30c. All drugstores.

Dr. Garrard Will Open Office Here

Dr. M. H. Garrard, Jr., optometrist, announces the opening on Friday, Dec. 6, of his offices for scientific eye examination and complete optical service. The new office is located at 814 Ludington street.

Dr. Garrard opens in Escanaba with several years' optical experience and will include his own laboratory for the construction and repair of glasses. Before moving here recently he resided at Dearborn, Michigan where he maintained a practice after his graduation from Ohio State University in 1941. Prior to his attendance there he was branch manager of a large Detroit optical company.

In 1942 he enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps where he was attached to the Flight Surgeon's office in a visual capacity. He has recently completed 32 months service.

Dr. and Mrs. Garrard, with their small daughter, Julie Claire, are residing at 910 6th avenue south.

Postman's Parka
Ski Jackets

To you aspirants of that wonderful sport—skiing—it's important to have a good parka—indispensable for active skiing—combining all the important features of weather—resistance, freedom and style.

This Postman's Parka, designed by White Stag, is made of Bates' Belvedere Poplin and is waterproofed by having been Zelan treated. The garment is of conventional windbreaker style, but departs from the usual in that a startling Scarlet slash runs from the right-hand side of the waist across the chest, over the left shoulder and down the back to the right-hand side of the waist again. This slash is caught with a small pouch of self material and is used by the skier to hold her cosmetics, hairpins, change, etc. A small silver-plated buckle at the point the slash crosses the zipper of the jacket adds to the garment's attractiveness. An additional feature is that the pouch may be detached and the two ends of the slash may be fastened together. The parka has a neatly tailored collar, deep-cut action sleeves with tight cuffs, and a drawstring waist.

The Postman's Parka comes in Black, Snow White, or Postman's Blue, and all have the scarlet slash. In addition to the full length zipper front closure, the gussets at the cuffs of the garment make it as wind proof as possible.

The Postman's Hood, which is especially designed for this garment comes in seven different colors and definitely adds glamour on the slopes. It may be used with other types of windbreakers and is also made of Bates' Belvedere waterproofed Poplin. The hood has a visor, and ties which cross behind the neck under the hair and are brought back up to the top of the head to be tied in a bow just behind the visor itself. Besides having the feature of a visor, White Stag constructed the hood in such a way as to give the best of protection to the longest of hair-dos. With it the skier no longer has to worry about bunching up her hair or having it come out wet and sticky at the end of the day's skiing. Now at Lauer's Sports Department.

Christmas Seal
Returns Totaled
$501 First Week

Christmas seal returns during the first week of the 40th annual seal sale conducted by the local committee amounted to $501.50, the campaign chairman, Mrs. K. F. Harrington reports.

The seal sale, which opened Monday, Nov. 25 throughout the county, will continue until Christmas. Proceeds will be used to finance the association's tuberculosis control and preventive work.

"The promptness of many residents of the county in sending checks for their seals immediately is greatly appreciated," Mrs. Harrington said. "While the sale will continue until Christmas, it is extremely helpful to the association and to the post offices if returns are made early, before the heavy rush of Christmas mail begins."

Seal sale funds will be used again next year to continue the fight against TB in cooperation with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and local and state health officials. Despite a 68 per cent reduction in the state TB death rate since the first Christmas seals were sold, the disease took 1,758 Michigan lives last year.

"Unrelenting effort to inform the people about tuberculosis, so they can cooperate fully with their physicians and health officers, can do much to eradicate this disease," Mrs. Harrington said. "We cannot remain complacent in the face of a disease which continues to kill more people between the ages of 15 and 35 than any other."

Double Ring Rites
Wed Miss Buckland
And Sam Peterson

Betty Eileen Buckland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Buckland, was given in marriage by her father to Sam Edmond Peterson, son of Mrs. Gunnar Peterson, 706 South 19th street, in a double ring ceremony at the Calvary Baptist church at 10 a. m. on Nov. 23 with Rev. Birger Swenson officiating. Miss Ruth Johnson played the "Wedding March" on the organ and Mrs. Allan Goodman, the bride's cousin, sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a net insert at the neckline. Her fingertip veil was gathered into a tiara decorated with pearl ornamentation. She wore a three strand string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of pink and white baby mums with a white satin bow and streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Betty

Gereau, wore a pink gown with a taffeta bodice and a net skirt. Her shoulder length veil was pink and her bouquet matched that of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with black accessories and the mother of the bridegroom wore a lavender dress with black accessories. Both wore corsages of American Beauties.

George Petaja served as the best man.

A dinner was held at Helen and Betty's cafe for the immediate family and a reception which was attended by 100 guests was given at the Cornell hall from 2 to 5.

The couple will make their home in Escanaba where the bridegroom is employed by the Northern Motor company and the bride by Tommy's Lunch room.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brockway of South Bend, Ind.

RAILWAY LAND GRANTS PASSE

79th Congress Repealed Law Enacted In 1850

Land grant railroads are no more.

The law passed by the 79th Congress repealing the act that in the 1850's approved the granting of lands to certain railroads to facilitate their construction is now in effect, and a famous era in railroading, the Michigan Railroads association point out, has ended.

The railroad land grant era, begun in 1850, has always been misunderstood. The grants were not gifts by the Government. In each case a bargain was made. They were favors with strings attached. Also, contrary to general belief, not all the railroads, only 14,410 miles or 8 3/4 per cent of the total, were Government-aided. The famous Stephen A. Douglass is generally considered the author of the railroad land grant idea.

The Government owned vast acreages of land for which it could find no settlers at even as low as 12 1/2 cents an acre because the land was inaccessible or too remote from markets. To give the land value the Government persuaded the railroads, then in their infancy, to build by grants of land, 60 in all, totaling 131 million acres.

The railroads built. Settlers followed the lines. Land formerly unsalable at 12 1/2 cents now sold for $1.25 and up to $2.50 per acre.

In return for the gifts the railroad bound themselves in perpetuity to transport Government troops and materials free in most instances and at half rates in others, and the mails, since 1876, at 80% of base rates.

During debates on the repealer bill in the last Congress it was brought out that Uncle Sam, since the first land-grant days, had received from the railroads $900,000,000 of free transportation for his "gift" land, valued at $125,000,000.

In Michigan, 1,100 miles of track on six railroads were built with grants totaling 3,129,297 acres. Included was the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, which built the Marquette-to-Nestor and Nestor-to-L'Anse right-of-way on "land grant" acreage.

"Passage of the repealer law is the incontrovertible proof," the Michigan Railroads association states, "that the grants were not outright gifts as has almost universally been thought, but were profitable bargains for Uncle Sam. In addition, building the railroads saved the west to the Union."

MANY TUBERS WILL FREEZE

And American Taxpayers
Will Be Paying
For Them

Washington—Millions of bushels of potatoes are going to freeze to death this winter.

And for nearly every bushel lost, the U. S. taxpayer will foot the bill. The Government has, in effect, written a life insurance policy on each of the spuds.

Government loans were granted potato growers on their crop in an effort to keep the price of this year's bumper production from sinking below the promised "support" level, equal to 90 per cent of the "parity" price.

As High As Your House
Piles of potatoes as high as a house exposed to the northern winter, are the collateral the Government has on its loans.

Reports of the Department of Agriculture through November 9 show the Government has loaned $3.2 million on 5.8 million bushels of potatoes. Growers have redeemed only $6,987.82 worth.

Even these figures give little indication of the quality of potatoes which will be mortgaged to the Government. Paper work, officials say, is so far behind it will be late in the winter before anyone knows accurately how many bushels of spuds the Government has loaned money on.

By April, Advanced Decay
A conservative guess—some run much higher—is that the Government will find itself holding a lien on about 50 million bushels in all states. Because of the shortage of storage space, the loans are made in spuds in pits, barns or any place else the farmer can pile them. Nearly all will be rotten when the loans come due next April.

The potato crisis stems from the avalanche of spuds dug this season. According to latest statistics, the crop will come to about 478 million bushels, or a hundred million more than agriculture experts estimated could be eaten.

Back of this bumper crop is the Government's support price program which guarantees the farmer an abnormally large return for his produce and places a premium on overproduction.

Frustration for Functionaries
The Department of Agriculture has been trying to keep the crop within bounds by issuing acreage goals telling the grower how much land should be planted to spuds each year. For 1946, growers were asked to hold down potato patches to a national total of 2,780,000 acres. The experts estimated this would yield 378 million bushels, or plenty to go around.

Potato growers met the acreage request. But after complying with the acreage reduction, the farmers "turned to" and made their land lavished on land that had never known it before. The most suitable fields were selected, bugs were hunted down with the latest, most improved insecticides, and the weather turned out to be ideal.

Yields soared, and each potato acre averaged 175.3 bushels, nearly 50 bushels above average. Next year potato acreage will be cut to 2,669,800 acres and farmers will be encouraged to discourage their growing spuds. Normal yields from this acreage would give a 375 million bushel crop.

What worries the experts is that if prices are artificially supported at the present high levels, actual yields will again be far above normal. If they equal this year's yields, the nation will be snowed under by 468 million bushels.

Agriculture officials wonder if there will be any end to the mountains of spuds. The price support program, by law, must be carried on for two years after the end of the war—and officially the war isn't over yet.

St. Ignace Will Seek Industries

St. Ignace — Representatives from five community service organizations met Friday evening in the council room of the City Hall to form a permanent organization chief aim of which would be to attract manufacturing plants to St. Ignace.

Oliver Cummings, manager of the Michigan Employment Service, was named permanent executive secretary and presided at the meeting. Naming of a permanent chairman was postponed until the next regular meeting on Friday, Dec. 13.

P. J. Della-Moretta, H. B. Cheeseman and Charles J. Mulcrone were appointed a committee on industrial relations. Several members were requested to make surveys on what the city has to offer as an inducement for manufacturers to locate here including Dean Hermann on labor statistics, Mr. Cheeseman on taxes, George E. Miles, power rates, and Catherine Hoban, freight rates. These statistics are to be compiled and presented at a later meeting.

COUNTY-SCHOOL TAX DUE SOON

1946 Rate In Escanaba
$22.10 Per $1,000
Valuation

Escanaba city taxpayers will pay county, school, and school debt taxes totaling $22.10 per $1,000 equalized valuation this year, a rate that is slightly above that for 1945. The tax bills are now being prepared in city hall and will be in the hands of the taxpayers by Dec. 10.

The rate of $22.10 based on the city's equalized valuation of $12,527,632 will bring the county and schools a total of $215,540.71 from the city taxpayers.

Rates for the county, the schools, and school debt, together with the tax budgets in the city are as follows:

County—Rate at $8.22 per $1,000 valuation for a budget totaling $80,176.84. Schools—Rate of $10.92 per $1,000 valuation for a budget totaling $106,484.87. School debt—Rate at $2.96 and budget of $28,880.

The rate for the schools increased and that for the county decreased since last year, following a reduction in the millage allocated the county by the tax allocation commission. The rates in the city last year were: County $8.94; schools $9.32; school debt $3.12, or a total of $21.38.

The period for the payment of county and school taxes in Escanaba is from Dec. 10 to Jan. 10. A total of 4,396 tax bills are being mailed this week.

Werner Bequeaths $5,000 To Orphans

Marquette—The late Frederick Frei Werner, 82, lifelong resident of Marquette who died at his home, 121 East Hewitt avenue, last Oct. 17 bequeathed $5,000 of his estate to the Holy Family Orphanage, Marquette, according to terms of his will admitted to probate in county probate court.

The former prominent Marquette businessman left an estate of approximately $67,000, including $7,000 worth of real estate. Probate Judge Carroll C. Rushton said yesterday that the inventory of the estate is not yet complete.

Mr. Werner left 30 per cent of his estate to his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Werner Riedinger, whom he appointed executrix of the will. Mrs. Riedinger's son, Louis E. Riedinger, Jr., was given 20 per cent under trust and 50 per cent was left to Mr. Werner's niece, Mrs. Mary Riedinger Peterson. All are residents of Marquette.

The five Central American republics—Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua—comprise 200,770 square miles of territory, and 8,590,384 inhabitants.

writers and there shouldn't be any Christmas fires this year like the one last Christmas Eve which cost the lives of 17 persons in Hartford, Conn., convalescent home.

Here's the suggestions:

Keep your tree outdoors until you are ready to trim it, and don't set it up until a few days before Christmas, then put it in the coolest part of the house. Shut off nearby radiators.

Use no cotton or paper to trim the tree or area around it.

Keep electric trains away from the tree. Use only electric lights and see that they are in good condition. When you leave home, turn off the lights. Inspect the tree from time to time and see whether needles near the light bulbs have started to brown. If they have, move the lights. When the tree starts to shed its needles it is time to take it down. (The underwriters say no method of flameproofing Christmas trees has proven successful.)

If you are going to decorate the rest of the house, put the decorations up near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing. Keep all decorations away from chairs and other places people may be smoking. Use electric lights instead of candles for decorations and keep the lights away from curtains and other inflammable materials.

Some cities have forbidden the use of Christmas trees and other inflammable material as holiday decorations in stores, schools and other places where crowds gather. In case your city hasn't, here are some added precautions:

Christmas trees should not be set up near stairways or elevators which would provide an up-draft. They should never be located near doors or other exits.

Someone should make a thorough inspection every morning to see whether trees should be taken down and replaced by fresh ones. Smaller trees are less hazardous than large ones.

In case of fire, call the fire department.

As early as 1631 the fire menace in the American colonies was so great that in the Massachusetts Bay Colony it was forbidden to build a chimney with anything but stone or brick.

Passenger Service On Soo Line Cut Again

Further curtailment of passenger train service on the Soo Line railroad will be made effective on Sunday, Dec. 8, at midnight, according to word received at the office of Division Superintendent A. C. Peterson from the main offices in Minneapolis yesterday afternoon.

The new curtailment calls for tri-weekly service on trains No. 7 and 8. This means that Train 8 will leave Minneapolis on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, going through Gladstone east-bound on the mornings of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Train No. 7 will return the same day from the Soo going through Gladstone on the evenings of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The last daily train is scheduled for Sunday morning.

This is the second curtailment. Passenger Trains Nos. 86 and 87 having been cancelled shortly after the original order from the Office of Defense Transportation.

In event of strike settlement sermon will be by Quitman Smith. A service in the evening at 7:30 o'clock will bring the conference to a close. The closing sermon also will be by the Rev. Smith.

before the order goes into effect it is probable that the order will be cancelled.

Just what curtailment will be made in freight service has not been determined.

Briefly Told

Traffic Accident—Fred W. Beach of Garden received a cut on the forehead and his brother, Harold, was slightly scratched when the Beach automobile and a G. G. Bridges company truck, driven by Paul J. Schroeder of Escanaba, collided Wednesday noon. The accident occurred on North Ninth street. The front end of the Beach car was badly damaged.

Auxiliary To ORC—The Ladies' Auxiliary to the ORC will hold their annual Christmas party and installation of officers this afternoon at the home of Mrs. V. E. Tillman, 1120 Minnesota avenue, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Martha Circle—The Martha Circle of the WSCS of the Methodist church is to meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. A. Hetrick on Minnesota avenue. A special Christmas program will be presented. Assisting Mrs. Hetrick will be the Mes. Hanford White, Grier Ivory, George Strong and R. I. Simpson.

Confirmation Class—The senior confirmation class of the First Lutheran church will meet for instruction this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the church.

Ladies' Aid—The Ladies' Aid of the Mission Covenant church will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. John Lindgren as hostess.

Evening Guild—The Evening Guild of Memorial Methodist church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jay Osterberg, 1224 Wisconsin avenue. This will be the organization meeting of a unit which is for younger women of the church.

Masons To Elect—Annual election of officers will be held by Gladstone Lodge No. 396, F. & A. M., this evening at 8 o'clock at the lodge hall. Refreshments will be served.

Fancy Work Sale—An apron and fancy work sale is to be conducted by ladies of the Latter Day Saints church Saturday at the Siebert Hardware. There also will be some baked goods. The sale is to begin at 10 o'clock and Mrs. John Rasmussen and Mrs. V. T. Lockard will be in charge.

Wrong Hunter—Andy Oberg, not Andy Moore, shot the big black bear during the recent hunting season. A brief carried in the Press several days ago credited Moore with the feat.

Obituary

PAUL HARRIS
Funeral services were conducted last Saturday afternoon for Paul Harris, 64, longtime employee of Nick Sigan, who died at the Sigan camp near Deerton. Rites were at the Kelley Funeral Home with Rev. Clifford Peterson in charge.

Serving as pallbearers were Fedos Anischenko, Tony Lafeaf, Lloyd Johnson, Edward Esler, Nick Sigan and John Mattson. Burial was in Gardens of Rest.

EGG STEALERS PUNISHED
Taking eggs from a falcon's nest, in England, was an offense punishable by a year in prison and a heavy fine during the reign of Henry VII.

WEDS—Emily Helen Valencia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Valencia, Route 1, Gladstone, became the bride of Norman Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, Gladstone, at the All Saints rectory on Nov. 30 at 2 p. m. with Rev. Fr. Laviolette officiating. (Sidney Ridings Studio.)

Social

Christmas Party
The Royal Neighbors will have their annual Christmas party on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Bezner on South Tenth street. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. A social will follow at which gifts will be exchanged.

Valencia-Cole
Emily Helen Valencia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Valencia, Gladstone Route 1, became the bride of Norman Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, at a ceremony performed by Rev. Fr. Matt Laviolette at All Saints parsonage at 2 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 30.

Attending the couple were Mary Valencia, cousin of the bride, and Patrick Peterson of Valders, Wis., close friend of the groom.

The bride was attired in all white with princess style street length dress with white accessories and a corsage of American beauty roses.

The bride's maid was attired in dusty pink wool dress with black accessories and her corsage was of shaded pink carnations.

A 5 o'clock supper was served at the bride's home, covers being laid for 35. A beautiful 3-tiered wedding cake with miniature bride and groom formed the centerpiece.

Later in the evening a reception was held at the groom's home. A buffet style lunch was served.

The couple left later in the evening on a week's honeymoon to Chicago and points in Wisconsin. They will make their home in Gladstone where the groom is employed by the Northwestern Veneer and Plywood Corporation.

The bride has been employed for the past two years as a clerk at the Strand store in Kipling.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Mock and family of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson and son, Patrick, of Valders, Wis.

Homemaker Leaders To Discuss Colds At Meeting Dec. 10

Munising—Leaders of Alger county Homemaker clubs will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Steur in Rock River Township, Tuesday, Dec. 10 to discuss their various groups joining in a statewide campaign against colds. The meeting is to begin at 10:00 o'clock.

Fact and fad about food and fatigue as well as about diet and teeth will also be discussed by Miss Rose Forno, Home demonstration agent from Marquette county, Fred Bernhardt, 4-H club agent said.

The subject of keeping fit through all years of life will be considered from the many angles including the importance of iodized salt for folks of all ages and the necessity of dairy products for adults, he said.

Sugar-saved breads and cookies will be sampled and recipes for the currently abundant foods will be distributed at the meeting.

Three Alger Vets Back From Service

Munising—Three Alger county veterans of World War II returned home from service with the armed forces during the past week, it was announced yesterday by the local draft board.

They were: Arvo A. Haakola, Eben Junction; Robert G. Anderson, Munising and Richard H. Wood, Grand Marais.

1947 City Taxes Payable Dec. 10

Munising—Real Estate and Personal taxes for the City of Munising will be payable December 10, it was announced yesterday by John Korpela, city treasurer.

Four percent will be added if not paid before January 10, the city treasurer said. All unpaid taxes as of March 1, 1947 will be turned into the county clerk on that date as delinquent.

Taxes this year are based on the ratio of $36.80 per $1,000. These are the 1946 taxes based on the 1947 budget.

Payment may be made to John Korpela at the First National Bank after Dec. 10.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE
Munising—A basketball practice will be held by members of the Harry's basketball team of the Munising city league at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening, it was announced yesterday. Practice is to be held at the Mather high school gymnasium.

Employment Office Places 64 On Jobs During Past Month

Munising—A total of 64 persons were placed on jobs in Alger county by the Michigan State Employment Service, during the month of November, it was announced by Walter C. Meyland, manager, yesterday.

It was during the month of November that a significant increase of unemployed workers in Alger county was realized, Mr. Meyland said. On file at the MSES office here were 297 active applicants registered for work of whom 245 were veterans. The increase in job seekers over the previous month is attributed to the mass logging operation layoffs. With the resumption of woods work it is expected that the number of idle workers will decrease in December.

New applicants registering for employment totaled 50. This represents an increase of 11 persons over the previous month, Meyland said.

Active job openings for November decreased to a new low for the year, he said. There was a total of 13 unfilled job openings as compared with 23 at the end of October.

Anyone wishing part time work over the holidays should file applications for work at the employment office here, he said. Part time employment will be available approximately three weeks before Christmas and continue until after the New Year.

Employers who wish part-time workers are also requested to place orders for men and women at the employment officer, Meyland said.

Church Bazaar To Be Held Thursday

Munising—The Presbyterian church will hold its annual bazaar in the church parlors on Thursday, December 5, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing throughout the day.

Featured items to be on sale in the booths include: home-made rugs, baked goods, a special assortment of aprons and a wide variety of home-sewed articles.

Chairman of the bazaar is Mrs. George Flatley with Mrs. Claude Glover, assistant.

The public is invited.

The boy's condition Tuesday evening was reported favorable, barring complications.

Director Pleased With Senior Class Play Rehearsals

Munising—Rehearsals of the play "Green Lights" to be presented by members of the Mather high school class of 1947, are getting into the final stages and a "good production" is looked forward to by the director, James Woodbridge.

The play, which has a cast of ten, is a three act mystery, and is sure to meet the approval of local amateur play followers.

The date of presentation, previously set for December 3, has now been definitely set for December 10. The curtain will rise on the first scene at 8:15 o'clock.

Tickets for the play have been on sale for some time and may be purchased from a senior student or at the high school.

ELIZABETH C. McNULTY

DOES CITY WANT N. GUARD UNIT?

Sentiment For Proposal Being Sounded Among Service Clubs

Shall Manistique have a unit of the Michigan National Guard?

Sentiment concerning the advisability of promoting such an organization is being sounded out this week among the veteran organizations, the Lions and Rotary clubs and the Elks lodge. In a letter to the heads of these organizations, Leonard Mulhaupt, secretary of the Schoolcraft - Manistique Chamber of Commerce, is asking these organizations to bring the subject up for discussion at their next meetings.

There are many sound reasons for the establishment of a guard unit here Mulhaupt points out in his letter. He stresses primarily the fact that men who had training in the National Guard had the advantage of preliminary training when they were called into service in the late war. This worked for early promotion, he stated.

There are also many advantages that come to the young men who would enlist in the ranks, such as pay for the time spent at drill, clothing allowance, target practice and social activity.

Of outstanding importance to the community would be the erection of an armory, which while primarily devoted to National Guard activity also, almost invariably, serves as a community center and auditorium for public gatherings.

These advantages, should the establishment of a guard unit be authorized by state headquarters, would come to the community without cost, Mulhaupt said.

Pleads Not Guilty To Headlighting

Charles Robert Gould of Garden appeared before Judge W. G. Stephens in justice court Wednesday morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of using an artificial light for the purpose of injuring, capturing or killing wild birds and animals. His trial was set for December 11, and he was released on $100 bonds.

He was arrested in the Garden vicinity on Nov. 11.

TRAVELOGUE IS PROGRAM THEME

Mrs. Shipman Tells Women's Club Of Western Trip

A travelogue describing a journey up "Hell's Canyon" on the Snake River by Dorothy Middlebrook Shipman and enhanced and visualized by colored moving pictures taken by Mrs. Shipman when she made the trip last July, provided an instructive and delightful afternoon for the members of the Manistique Women's club at their regular meeting on Tuesday.

"The Snake River, a tributary of the Salmon River," Mrs. Shipman said, "is sometimes called 'The River of No Return' for it is impassable as it cuts its way through the deepest and narrowest canyons of Idaho and Oregon, and is the only connection between various points of that area."

She pointed out the fact that a 100 mile distance contains 50 rapid of varying length with constant change of velocity and depth. The Snake River is the fourth in hydroelectric power in the United States, Mrs. Shipman stressed.

Mrs. Shipman described the people living along the river as mainly sheepherders and trappers. She interestingly described Kyle McGrady who, with his little boat, provides the only available transportation as he travels the most unusual and hazardous postal route in the United States, carrying mail and supplies to the people once or twice a week. Among his supplies are live eels used for catching the sturgeons which are numerous in the river.

The two day trip taken by Mrs. Shipman last July 3 and 4 required an overnight stop at a lodge where "Joe," a mule deer, attracted great interest.

On the return trip the two diesel engines were kept at full speed to control the boat ahead of the current.

Local talent, providing the musical portion of the meeting consisted of a string trio, Carl Olson and Norman Martin with violins and Mrs. James Fyvie at the piano. The first selection was Joseph Pleyel's "Sonatina," the three movements being played in a classical style. The second selection was Part I of Charles Dancla's "Three Little Symphonies," a theme with variations.

The business meeting included a report by Mrs. W. G. Wilson on

Children Playing With Matches Set Fire To Curtains

Two game wardens from this area, Harold Peters and Ernest Derwin, were standing in front of the city hall Wednesday morning deploring the way their business had slumped since the hunting season ended, when they chanced to look across the street at the residence of Mrs. George Fish, and saw that the upstairs windows were in flames.

They rushed into the fire station and summoned help. The flames which were confined to the lace curtains, were quickly subdued.

Children playing with matches is given as the cause of the fire.

Foxes Lie In Den Awaiting Arrival Of Swift's Cagers

Hermansville, Mich.—In a game which should pack the Community Club to the rafters, the Tom Swift cagers of Bark River meet the powerful Hermansville Silver Foxes Sunday night in the 1946-47 renewal of one of the greatest independent team rivalries in the Upper Peninsula.

Bringing the Swift cagers here is the colorful Arnold "Dopey" Johnson who needs no introduction to local fans. His squad, which last year fought the Foxes on even teams, are paced by Bob Rangette, Bob Anderson, Roy Johnson and Ben Kileman. Hermansville expects to be in full strength for Sunday's game and manager Fleetwood expects to have Captain Leroy Fiorano and Bruno Mauli, who were out of action last week, ready to go. Fleetwood is drilling his cagers hard this week for Sunday's crucial battle.

Silver Fox officials are urging fans to come early for the game. The game is ticketed to start at 8 p. m.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gundersman

The desirability of creating a lagoon skating rink at Escanaba's Ludington Park is indelibly revealed now. It is unlikely that there will be good ice for skating on any other week and probably not for 10 days to two weeks, depending upon weather conditions. A lagoon rink, however, would have provided a good ice sheet as early as 10 days ago. The reason for this is that water in a lagoon is always there, awaiting only the drop in temperature to below 32 degrees to solidify.

The cost of building a suitable base and pumping water for an ice rink away from the bay shore is considerable so city crews generally wait until they are reasonably sure a sustained period of cold weather has arrived before starting the construction of rinks in various locations of the community. Moreover, when they guess wrong and warm weather arrives to thaw out the rinks, it is an even more costly job to repeat the process. Experience over the years has shown that it is not practical to build the city rinks prior to Dec. 15.

The Chicago Skating club which reported several weeks ago that it plans to send its Olympic aspirants to train at Escanaba for a week or more this winter is still very much interested in that plan. An official of the club called George Grenholm, city recreation director, this week to inquire about the present condition of the Escanaba rinks. He was informed, of course, that the rinks are not yet ready. Members of the local Bay de Noc club also are anxious to get under way for a season that promises to be the most interesting in Escanaba speed skating history.

Skaters in the Escanaba Figure Skating club's winter revue, a highlight of the winter sports season in the Upper Peninsula, will be interested to know that talent scouts will be here Feb. 13-16 to see the show. They are Gertrude and Randolph Avery, who directed and produced the Avery Victory Vagues of 1946, the night grandstand show that scored such a tremendous hit with patrons of the Upper Peninsula State Fair in August. The reputation of the Escanaba ice revue is spreading.

The Escanaba Winter Sports club, parent organization of the figure skating club, speed skating club, ski club and the junior ski club now being organized, is planning an ambitious membership campaign this season. The goal is 2,500 memberships at a dollar a head, funds which will be used to promote all of the various winter sports activities in the community this winter. Buttons will be placed on sale in another week or 10 days.

Richards Relieved Of Tiger Post To Run Buffalo Team

Los Angeles, Dec. 4 (P)—The Detroit Tigers made news at the major-league baseball meetings today by announcing two important shifts in player personnel.

Paul Richards, 38-year-old Tiger catcher since 1943 and former minor league manager of Atlanta in the Southern Association, was named to succeed Gabby Hartnett as manager of Buffalo of the International League in 1947. Detroit has a working agreement with Buffalo.

In announcing that Richards had been relieved of his player commitment as a Tiger to sign the Buffalo contract, General Manager George Trautman of the Tigers said that the club had sold Jimmy Bloodworth, part-time second baseman, to the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League.

Last season Bloodworth batted .243 in 76 games with the Tigers, sharing the second base assignment with Eddie Mayo and Skeeter Webb.

Richards, who batted only .201 in 57 games a year ago, was the No. 1 catcher of Detroit's World Champions in 1945.

Oklahoma Accepts Bid To Gator Bowl

Norman, Okla., Dec. 4 (P)—After debating more than two weeks, the University of Oklahoma today accepted an invitation to meet North Carolina State in the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, Fla., New Year's Day.

The announcement came after the players voted to approve the post-season game and the athletic council and President George Cross gave their consent. Big Six Conference schools also gave approval.

Strange as it sounds, two defeats rocketed Oklahoma into the nation's grid spotlight.

An under-rated team, using the "T" formation the first time and under a new coach, opened the season by playing Army to a standstill the first half before losing 7-21.

Two weeks later Oklahoma played Texas even in everything but the score, finally being edged 20-13.

Oklahoma ended its season with seven victories and three defeats. It shares the Big Six crown with Kansas.

Tables At Detroit Lucky For Hoppe

Detroit, Dec. 4 (P)—Willie Hoppe continued to find Detroit billiard tables to his liking tonight as he took his fourth straight block from Young Jake Schaefer and assumed a 564-544 lead in their 1,500 point cross-country billiard match.

Hoppe, who trailed when the cue men opened a three-day stay here Tuesday, took the night break 50-40 after winning the afternoon session 50-48. The 11th block went 53 innings and the night session 46.

The final two blocks of the Detroit match will be played Thursday and the pair then will move on to New York.

MINOR LEAGUE CHIEF RETIRES

Salary Of $10,000 Yearly Voted Bramham, Prexy For 16 Years

Los Angeles, Dec. 4 (P)—Baseball heads of 42 minor leagues comprising the National Professional Association voted today to retire their president of the last 16 years, 72-year-old William G. Bramham, of Durham, N. C., on a $10,000 yearly salary, and make the first move to increase protection of their territorial rights against invasion by the big leagues.

Immediate action also was urged to curtail the present practice of paying high bonuses to sign new players. If the major leagues concurred and advance indication was that they would—a maximum of $7,500 can be offered for signing a contract—unless the big league club would be willing to keep the young player on its roster without farming him out.

Bramham, affiliated with the national association in various capacities for 25 years, requested retirement because of ailing health. He will be retained as consultant to the new president on a lifetime basis. His successor will be elected tomorrow.

Ben Hogan Rules Top Favorite For $10,000 Miami Open

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (P)—Golf's Mr. Money Man of 1946, Ben Hogan, ruled the top favorite as 239 golfers prepared to tee off in the $10,000 Miami Open with the first rays of daylight tomorrow.

It was the second largest field in the history of the 23-year-old tourney and missed by only one of equalling the 1931 depression year event when 240 players put up the purse of $2,000.

The first of the 239 golfers, Howard Kluth, La Grange, Ill., Sam Dixon, Ossining, N. Y., and Jack Taulman, Columbus, Ind., will tee off at 6:45 a. m. and will have the privilege of breaking through the night's heavy fall of dew on the greens.

The field will be cut to the 100 low scorers and ties for the second day's play.

Although Hogan, the year's leading money winner with $44,396 so far in the bag, was first in the history of the tourney, little Ben himself thought otherwise.

Suffering from an injured left shoulder but still able to wallopp the ball far more than his 135 pounds would indicate, Hogan declared that there were at least 20 other potential winners.

Jacobs' Condition Remains Critical

New York, Dec. 4 (P)—Fight Promoter Mike Jacobs' condition still remained critical tonight and an aide of the 66-year-old boxing boss said "the next 24 hours will tell the story."

The bald little man who rose from a newsboy to head of fistic empire showed a slight improvement today following a restful night at St. Clare's hospital.

A cerebral hemorrhage caused Jacobs' to collapse last yesterday.

CHICAGO EGGS—Chicago, Dec. 4 (P)—Eggs, irregular; large No. 1 and 2 extras, 48 to 51; others unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK—Chicago, Dec. 4 (P)—Prices slipped, heavily today with a broad spread of 80 cents between the top price of $24.80 at which one load sold early in the session and the $24.00 level at which most sold.

No similar trend was evident in cattle and hogs which ruled mostly steady to as much as 25 cents higher on cow offerings.

A moderate supply of strictly good and choice steers showed up to bring from $31.00 up to the top of $36.00. Most steers brought from $20.00 to $30.00 and most heifers $19.00 to $25.00 while some choice mixed steers and heifers brought up to $38.00.

A very active market for cows sent canners and cutters up to $9.75 and $12.00 and most heaves to $13.00 and $15.50. Bulls were firm at $16.50 and $17.50 respectively for sausage and beef types. Choice weighty vealers continued at $23.00, while stock cattle were fairly active at $15.50 to $18.00.

This was the third consecutive session in which hog prices had dropped, accounted for by dressed pork prices which have dropped rather continuously for a month. Live butcher hogs now were selling mostly at $12.50 to $15.00 and the level of last Friday.

Good and choice brought mostly $24.00 to $24.25 toward the close compared with early sales of $24.25 to $24.50. The practical loss was $24.65. Some were even more strongly affected, declining 75 cents to $1.00 during the day, to sell at $22.25 to $22.75 for most good and choice offerings.

Clearance was fair at the lower prices, with shippers buying 1,000 head of the 10,000 hogs on sale and 5,000 more being consigned to packers.

Slaughter lambs held largely steady with spots weak on fed weeked westerns. Good and choice natives brought $24.50 to $24.65, the top, while similar fed weeked westerns were $24.25 to $24.40. Comparable yearlings sold at $20.00 and native ewes at $8.50, the latter about 50 cents lower.

Berkeys included 11,000 cattle, 1,000 calves, and 7,000 sheep.

Popularity Wanes For T-Formation; Defense Is Solved

BY AUSTIN REAL MEAR

New York, Dec. 4 (P)—Although the T-formation has become the most widely used offensive system in college football, it is rapidly losing favor with a large number of coaches who point out that the defense finally has caught up with the intricate style made popular by the professional Chicago Bears.

This was indicated today in a poll of major coaches and other gridiron master-minds from coast to coast, conducted by the Associated Press.

Even those who feel that the T-formation, in its strictest application, is on the way out, however, predict that it will be incorporated more and more with other systems, a plan followed with considerable success by many mentors during the past season.

Foremost critics of the "T" point to the Army-Notre Dame game, in which two powerful exponents of the system were able to hold each other absolutely scoreless, and other examples of upsets achieved by underdogs which devised a defense to cope with the "T" complications.

Only in the far west, first sector to begin exploiting the "T" after Clark Shaughnessy, then at Stanford, joined George Halas of the Chicago Bears in experimenting with it, does the intricate formation appear to have lost none of its popularity.

In other sections, opinion is divided, with some coaches still willing to string along with the T-formation but many others losing their enthusiasm and swinging away to other systems or combining the best features of the "T" with the single or double wing.

Midwestern coaches also are divided in their opinions, with those in the northern part of that sector more skeptical of the formation's future possibilities than those farther south.

Paul Bixler of Ohio State foresees a swing back to the single and double wing and other variations within three or four seasons. Minnesota's Bernie Bierman still feels the single wing while Cecil Isbell of Purdue and Bo McMillin of Indiana noted an increase in offenses from the "T."

All coaches in the Big Six Conference used the "T" this year and apparently plan to continue, with variations here and there.

In all sections, the most popular defense against the T-formation this year was a five-man line with a 3-2-1 secondary.

Minnesota concentrated on a 5-2-2 defense against the "T" while some coaches employed six-man and seven-man lines. Southern Methodist used a 4-4-2-1 to throw Missouri's "T" off the track and Washington State went so far as to spring a three-man line against Stanford, forcing the Indians to waste an entire quarter readjusting their blocking assignments.

Rock Plays Tonight At Rapid River Gym

With a record of two wins and one loss so far, the Rapid River high school basketball team will perform on their home floor tonight with Rock high as the opponent. It will be the second game of the season for Rock. Tuesday night they lost to Eben, 41 to 29.

Berger and Thompson of Manitowish will officiate tonight. The time schedule for the three contests on the program at the Rapid River will be: 7th and 8th grades, 6:45 p. m.; Rock Reserves and Rapid River reserves, 7:30 p. m.; main game, 8:15.

In Spain on Christmas Eve, or Nochebuena, throngs of young people crowd the streets anxious to perform "good deeds" before church bells toll the hour of the Holy Birth.

Colored Team Puts On Great Show To Defeat Escanaba Stars, 44-30

The Kansas City Stars colored basketball team, companion team of the world famed Harlem Globe Trotters, put on a sparkling exhibition of ball handling and accurate shooting to trim the Escanaba All-Stars, 44 to 30, before a capacity crowd at the Bonifas gymnasium last evening.

The colored lads built an early lead and then frolicked amid a riot of comedy to entertain the crowd. In the final stanza, the travelling team mixed basketball and football with their basketball antics while the crowd screamed in laughter.

In the fundamentals of basketball, however, the Kansas City lads were superb, tossing the ball around the court with amazing accuracy and with uncanny speed.

Boyd Buie, one armed hotshot of the Kansas City team, played virtually the entire game and although he dropped in only two field goals, his splendid ball handling amazed the crowd.

In the preliminary game, Mike's Bar staged a last minute rally to defeat Oberg's, 35 to 31.

The box score of the feature game follows:

AFFAIR HONORS LOCAL GRIDMEN

250 Attendance Expected At Bethany Church

Bennie Oosterbaan and Jack Blott, former All American football players at the University of Michigan, now backfield and line coaches, respectively, of the Wolverines, will be guest speakers tonight at the annual Chamber of Commerce football recognition banquet at the Bethany Lutheran church at 6:30 o'clock. Approximately 250 persons will attend, including 65 members of the St. Joseph and Escanaba high school varsity football squads.

John G. Erickson, Escanaba attorney, will be toastmaster of the event. Rev. Fr. Alphonse Wilberding will give the invocation.

Following the dinner, Carl Nelson, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, will extend official greetings. The coaches of the two squads will be introduced and Clarence Needham and George Ruwitch, head coaches of the Trojans and Eskymos, respectively, will speak briefly for their squads. Other coaches to be introduced are Francis Farrell, of St. Joseph, and James Rouman, Dick Schram and Bill Puckelwartz of the Eskymos.

A musical interlude will be presented by the senior high school octettes, comprising Wendell Buckland, Ronald Johnson, Merle Nelson, Harold Sundelius, Robert Huckenpahler, Eric Hammar, John Watts and Lloyd Servant.

This will be the 15th annual football recognition banquet sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in Escanaba.

The selection of Oosterbaan and Blott, two of the outstanding names in Michigan football history, both of them All Americans, for the speaking program tonight is in line with the tradition of the annual affair. Many of the outstanding men of national football fame have appeared at the banquet in past years, including Fritz Crisler, Michigan head coach, Bernie Bierman, of Minnesota; Charlie Bachman, Michigan State; Jimmy Crowley, of Fordham, now with the All American league; Jimmie Conzelmann, of the Chicago Cardinals; Harry Stuhldreher, of Wisconsin; Con Jennings, of Marquette; the late Jack Chevigny of Notre Dame, killed at Iwo Jima; Don Hutson, of the Green Bay Packers. Others who have appeared here include Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune; Joe Boland, WGN sports commentator; and last year a baseball hero, Dizzy Trout, of the Detroit Tigers, was the speaker at the local football banquet.

Love Calls Of Fish Make The Sea Noisy

(P) Newsfeatures
San Diego, Calif.—Mariners of the wooden ship days weren't so wrong after all when they talked of hearing sea worms crunching through the hulls, though the sounds might have come only from beds of snapping shrimps.

Dr. Martin Johnson, professor of marine zoology of the San Diego Society of Natural History, said the sea was actually a bedlam of such small sounds.

Submarine men heard so much over their hydrophones during the war, he added, that they often made alarming reports. This led to increased investigations.

Among other things the investigators found was that porpoises make two types of noises—one a bark and the other a supersonic whistle. The croaker makes a tapping noise and the load fish makes a distinct musical sound.

Then why are aquariums so silent? Well, said Dr. Johnson, perhaps in captivity fish "tend to pout and won't give their love calls."

NEW ALL-CARGO PLANE IS BUILT

Features Low Loading And Operating Costs

Columbus, Ohio—Another giant plane of the all-cargo type is under design and construction. It is a four-engine affair, capable of carrying a 12-ton load half way across the United States without refueling.

This new plane is being designed and constructed here by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, and will be powered by four R-1820 Wright Cyclone engines with exhaust-driven turbo-superchargers. This newest version of the 1820 will contribute to low operating costs; it is claimed to be more efficient and economical even than the type that powered the B-17 Flying Fortress on high-altitude, long-range missions.

The low floor in the cargo compartment of the new plane is an outstanding feature, contributing to low-cost loading. When on the runway, it is the height of the ordinary truck bed. The plane has three large doors for direct loading from trucks, and a smaller front door for loading from a shipping dock. Its high wings insure clearance for trucks.

The single cargo compartment of the new plane is 59 feet long, nine wide, and from seven to nine feet in height. The giant is to be equipped with Curtiss electric reversible propellers which can be used for braking on runways, and to taxi the plane into position at shipping platforms. This all-cargo plane, the CW-32, will have a cruising speed of 270 miles an hour at an altitude of 25,000 feet. It will not be ready for service for another year.

Wells Youth Held For Theft Of Car

John L. Casey, 17, of Wells, yesterday was bound over to circuit court for trial after waiving examination in Justice Henry Ranguette's court to a charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile owned by Hubert Shepeck of Escanaba. Another youth, 16 years of age, was arraigned in Juvenile Judge William J. Miller's court. County officers said that Casey has never before been in trouble with the law. He is held in jail in default of a $500 bail bond. Manistique city police arrested the boys early Wednesday morning, who said they found the car abandoned on the road leading to the car ferry dock in that city. The car had developed engine trouble. It was stolen at Wells Tuesday evening. State police returned the youths to Escanaba for arraignment.

Briefly Told

DAV Meeting—There will be a meeting of the Disabled American Vets this evening at eight o'clock at the Legion hall. This is the annual Christmas party and there will be an exchange of gifts.

Shipped to Japan—Word has been received by Mrs. Henry Stack, 738 Lake Shore drive, that her son, Pvt. Paul David Stack, has been transferred from Camp Lawton, Wash., to Yokohama, Japan for indefinite service.

Apply For License—Raymond G. Phillips of Watson Rt. 1 and Lucy Smith of Watson have applied for a marriage license at the office of the county clerk.

No Badminton—Because of the annual football banquet there will be no badminton session tonight at the high school gymnasium.

Arbor and Royal Oak. It will have more than 3,000 employees. Nearly 175,000 telephones are in service in the territory.

Chief officials will be: James F. Healy, division commercial superintendent, now on a similar post with the Southern Division at Grand Rapids; Harold L. Packer, division traffic superintendent, now general supervisor of traffic at Detroit; and Kenneth W. Thompson, now on special assignment to the general plant manager at Detroit.

High School Christmas Concert Is Outstanding

Heralding the approaching holiday season, the annual Christmas concert presented last night to a capacity audience in Wm. Oliver memorial auditorium was an outstanding musical success.

Arranged and conducted by Albert Shomento, high school music director, the concert pleased because of its imaginative treatment of the familiar Christmas music, and the excellence of the musicians in more difficult compositions. Spiced with popular tunes by Cole Porter and George Gershwin played by the orchestra, there was also the blare of assured brass in the group of marches presented by the band at the program opening.

Von Weber's "Konzertstück", a concerto for the piano with orchestral accompaniment, was played by Antoinette Giansanti.

FEARS HIS MATE

In spiderland, the male is the weaker of the sexes. He usually is smaller than his mate and very much afraid of her. His fears are well founded, for it is a common procedure for the male to serve as a meal for his spouse.

MUSICAL INVENTOR

Historians honor Guido Arentinus, a Benedictine monk of the 11th century, as the inventor of the present scale characters in music, and also the names of the notes of the scale.

TO THINK MY WIFE CAN MAKE ROLLS LIKE THIS!

KING MIDAS FLOUR

"Charmaine" by Rapee, and Gershwin's "Song of the Flame" were presented with assurance by the young musicians.

In the interval before presentation of a medley of Christmas music in fantasy, Mr. Shomento expressed his appreciation to the members of the music department for their assistance, and to Miss Margaret Kranstover, high school art director, for the stage scenery. The scenery and special lighting effects aided in colorfully setting the mood for the musical numbers.

"Christmas Fantasy" had as soloists Richard Broad, trumpet, and Eric Hammar, vocalist. The high school chorus, directed by Miss Jessie Wick, blended its voice with the orchestra in an arrangement of carols, closing with the triumphant "Joy to the World".

Harold Sundelius, high school senior, was narrator.
